

Maeras denies profiting from liquidated firm

JERRY MAERAS

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record
Jerry S. Maeras, 47, longtime Madison businessman and son of the late Mayor Stephen Maeras of Madison, has been implicated in the massive Stix & Company brokerage bankruptcy, sources said Wednesday. He is a nephew of former Madison County Sheriff John Maeras.

The real estate and insurance agency owner, a business and land developer and former Venice Township tax collector, told the Press-Record yesterday that accusations by Thomas R. Brimberry are false. But Maeras declined to answer questions about the case.

Commenting that he has done nothing wrong, Maeras said there have been inaccurate reports about him and various corporations "and that he hopes the record can be set straight."

He concluded, "I'm frankly confused about many of the things that are being said and published."

Brimberry, 37, a free-spending Granite Cityan, had risen from clerk to senior vice-president of St. Louis-based Stix in a span of nine years, preceding the firm's liquidation on Monday.

Also named by the senior vice-president as involved in monetary transactions were Brimberry's brother-in-law, Arthur J. Miller Jr., Stix & Co. President Frederic A. Arnstein Jr. and James J. Massa, a Collinsville attorney who was a director, chairman and the majority owner of Stix & Co., sources said. No charges have been filed, and the individuals deny the allegations.

Stix & Co. attorneys sought Brimberry for questioning after the office was ordered closed Nov. 5, and they objected to his absence at Monday's hearing, arguing that answers from him might clarify the firm's apparent $14 million deficit.

But they dropped their efforts to locate him after Federal Judge Kenneth W. Guehin accepted federal securities officials' assertion that—without Brimberry's presence—the brokerage's insolvency was obvious. President occurrences totaling $36 million are being alleged.

In return for testimony and cooperation with investigators, the sources related, Brimberry is to be charged only with a single tax felony.

Withdrawals from and deposits into various brokerage and banking accounts are alleged to have often been as large as $100,000 at a time.

A court affidavit by an Internal Revenue Service agent quotes records showing that Brimberry had an income of well over $1 million in some of the tax years between 1975 and 1980.

He had lived flamboyantly, making substantial gifts to numerous people. Many assumed that he either inherited his wealth or was unusually successful in his business activities.

IRS Agent James E. Wehrheim cites independent studies as having revealed that money was transferred from Stix to personal bank accounts controlled by Brimberry in Madison and Massa in Collinsville. Maeras and Miller are described as investors and clients of the firm.

Arnstein for a number of years was Stix's top administrative officer. Massa joined the Stix board after the firm experienced a decrease in capital in the 1973-76 period and decided to expand by more than doubling the number of its shares. Many of the new shares were Madison workers re-evaluated?

By MICK STRANGE

An unsigned letter read to the Madison City Council Tuesday night from Mayor Mike Sasyk in reference to the defeat of home rule in Nov. 3 balloting has the topic of much discussion in the city this week. Among the suggestions in the letter is one that all city employees be re-evaluated at open hearings.

Mayor Sasyk was not at the council's meeting, but the letter was read by Second Ward Alderman William Gushleff, who was chairing the council meeting on behalf of Mayor Sasyk.

The unsigned letter implied that the defeat of home rule was due to public resentment of the five percent utility tax the city imposed this summer, in addition to the proposed city-owned cable television system, which the city administration felt would bring in needed revenue.

Prior to the home rule election, the city administration maintained that, unless home rule passed, they could not build and operate cable TV and the proposed electronic emergency system which was to be incorporated into the system.

Prior to the meeting, various department heads were given instructions by Mayor Sasyk to tell city employees that, unless home rule passed, city services and personnel, such as police and street department workers, may be laid off due to lack of funds, and there would be no raises for any city employee.

Home rule rejection causes a closer look at employees

The legality of holding open meetings to evaluate city employees on a "one-on-one" basis, which Mayor Sasyk proposed in the letter, was a point of discussion following the meeting by several citizens and some officials.

The city administration had maintained that the emergency systems on the city-operated cable TV system would allow further reduction in the police force. The city ordinance now calls for 12 police officers, including the chief.

Currently Madison has 11 police officers counting the chief. However, one probationary patrolman is at police training school, one officer broke his foot and is on sick leave and another is a detective and not on patrol duty.

This leaves one lieutenant, three sergeants and three officers, or a total of seven police officers on the streets, for citizen and property protection, which must be divided to cover the city seven days a week, 24 hours a day.

Adding to the shortage of police, consideration must be taken for normal days off, vacation, court time, holidays and sickness, officers have said.

A personnel director, who asked not to be identified, told the Press-Record that for any job to be covered 24 hours every day of the year, it takes not three employees, but five employees to have the shift position filled.

The officer at school was due back today, but the current police schedule reportedly has him working the dispatching desk for about 10 days, due to a shortage there, the Press-Record has learned.

The police report for last month shows a 26 percent decrease in crime compared to October, 1980. The report, submitted to the council Tuesday, was prepared by Phyllis Moore, civilian records officer, and Donald L. Bridick, chief of police.

According to the 1981 committee appointment list of Mayor Sasyk, members of the aldermanic police and fire committee are Robert Don Reeves, chairman, Christ Costoff, Paul

E. Ashford, and Gushleff.

Members of the aldermanic finance committee are Thomas Gordon Jr., chairman, who was absent Tuesday night, Ashford, Reeves, and Gushleff. The unsigned letter read by Gushleff to the council Tuesday night follows.

"Now that the election has come and gone, and taking into consideration the election results, I feel we must re-evaluate the current and future financial condition and method of taxation of the city of Madison."

"I know we all felt that the recommendation of our administration to impose a utility tax and phase out the real estate taxes would be a more equitable form of taxation, that would prove beneficial to a majority of our residents, and at the same time put the responsibility for running the city on everyone living within our city. This action was taken knowing that it may cost our citizens a few extra dollars initially, because they would ultimately save money in the long run."

"I know our administration is a group of dedicated citizens, who have always sought to reflect the wishes of their constituents and will continue to do so. Since we are elected to represent the citizens of Madison and abide by their wishes, regardless of our personal convictions or recommendations, I am

Agency faces crunch

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

(First of a series)

"When your neighbor is laid off, it's a recession; when you're laid off, it's a depression."

How about our neighbor, the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission? (SIMAPC is its preferred acronym, pronounced Swin-Pack) Well, it's feeling a bit depressed these days, and with good reason:

All of its state allocation was eliminated for this year, and it is far from certain whether funding can be restored next year.

At stake is nothing less than the prosperity and the quality of life of this seven-county region, in the opinion of key area governmental leaders.

By formal definition, the Southwestern Commission is the only local governmental agency with multi-functional, regionwide responsibility and capability in Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Bond, Clinton and Washington counties.

John Mangiaracino, 1004 Third St., Venice, is no longer a member of the Venice Board of Education.

His ouster was effected at the request of the board through a resolution adopted Sept. 24, which petitioned Harry E. Briggs, Madison County (regional) superintendent of schools, to make the rare move against an elected public official.

Mangiaracino's formal expulsion from the board was enacted by Briggs and announced at the board's meeting on Monday night. Board Attorney Michael Bilbrey, reading the official notification from the regional administrator, stated Mangiaracino was removed as a member of the Venice School Board, effective Nov. 4, 1981, for "failure to willfully perform his duties."

The notice also stated that the vacancy created by Mangiaracino's ouster from the board should be filled by board appointment. If the seat is not filled within 30 days, an appointment will be made by the regional superintendent, it was stipulated.

The primary reason for Mangiaracino's ouster was his lack of attendance at meetings, board members indicated. Prior to the Sept. 24, 1981, meeting, when the resolution was adopted, Mangiaracino had attended only five board meetings since elected on April 12, 1980. The last time Mangiaracino was at a meeting was Sept. 8, 1980, records show.

In petitioning the regional superintendent to exercise his powers, pursuant to Illinois School Code, to remove a school board member from office, the Venice board's resolution stated that Mangiaracino's lack of attendance placed a heavy burden on the remaining members of the board, to conduct other business of the district, and to convene a quorum, conduct employee negotiations and to conduct other business of the district.

The question of Mangiaracino's attendance has been quietly discussed on several occasions, but the topic surfaced as part of the board's official record at the June 8 meeting.

At that time, the Rev. John Henry Williams addressed the board as an interested citizen and questioned whether or not it was true a member had not been to a meeting for six or seven months. Venice Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers confirmed that Mangiaracino had not attended a meeting since Sept. 8, 1980.

The board then instructed Bilbrey to look into the problem and attempt to clarify the board's position and what resources were available to board or the voters.

It was noted that board members are elected by the people and, apparently, the board, itself, could not take action because of poor attendance by its members. Therefore action by the regional superintendent of schools was necessary to confirm the school board's action.

An appointment to the board was not made Monday. The name of Gerald Cicio was offered by Board President Jack Tolliver as a candidate, but the board decided to withhold any appointment, for the present, and to discuss the matter in an executive session after Monday night's meeting. No official action was taken in or after the executive session, the Press-Record has learned.

Negotiations between board members and representatives of the Venice Federation of Teachers, Local 965, also were held following the regular board session Monday. No agreement was reached, however, and the two groups agreed to continue the talks at 6 p.m.

The teachers' working agreement expired June 30, but it was decided to delay the opening of talks on a new contract until after Oct. 1, when it was thought the district's financial position would be clearer.

19 industries billed for pretreatment plan

A $1,789 one-time user charge to 19 industrial plants for the development of the wastewater plant pretreatment program has been approved by the Granite City Council.

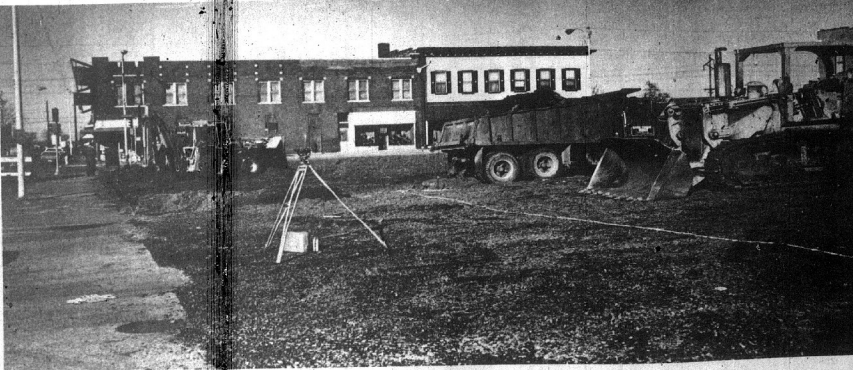

Under U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regulations, industries must pay for the city's share of the study that was conducted to develop the program, which will regulate industrial wastewater entering the wastewater pretreatment plant.

Terrance McMillan, city wastewater plant superintendent, said a "relatively quick collection" would most benefit the plant. City Attorney John Papa suggested a 60-day deadline for payment by the industries, and the council subsequently approved a charge due by Jan. 1, 1982. Total cost to the city for the development was $34,000. The cost will be divided among: Archer Daniels Midland Co., Archer Daniels Midland Corn Sweeteners facility, Air Products and Chemicals-Oxygen Plant, Air Products And Chemicals-Acetylene Plant, American Steel Foundries, Consolidated Aluminum Co., Finley Plating and Illinois-American Water Co. Also, Jennison-Wright Corp., Michigan Metals, Nestle Co., Prairie Farms Dairy, Reilly Tar and Chemical Co., Shasta, Tarsco, Todd Uniform, United Nesco, Tarpoff Packing Co., and Precast Metals, Division of Chromalloy Corp.

RELEASED ON BOND
Danny R. Poe, 22, of 2433 Logan Ave. has been released on $100 cash bond, according to a Madison County Sheriff's spokesman, after being charged with theft Thursday. Poe allegedly stole jewelry from the home of his sister and brother-in-law, Donald and Tom Kamadulski, 2701 Swan Drive.

CONSTRUCTION BEGINS ON MINI-MALL.

Construction began last week in Madison, on the David Connole Alpine Village and is expected to be in operation, depending on weather and material delay, within the next 180 days. There will be two connected 6,000-square-foot buildings, one occupied by a Reese Drug Store and the other by a Farm Fresh dairy store. The cost of the project is $540,000 and is being financed through a $300,000 community development grant and the $340,000 sale of industrial revenue bonds. The project is being built by the Winfield Construction Company of Edwardsville. The Mini-Mall has been in the planning stages for several years and represents countless hours of work by Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk and City Comptroller Al Hudzik. The location is on the northeast corner of Third Street and Madison Avenue, where several old buildings were torn down by the city.

Larger checks for veterans

About 2.3 million veterans, along with 240,000 surviving spouses and 83,000 children of deceased veterans, will receive larger Veterans Administration compensation amounts beginning in November.

The increase and other improvements in veterans benefits are the result of a law signed by President Reagan Oct. 17. It provides for an average 11.2 percent increase in VA compensation rates for service disabled veterans, and in dependency and indemnity compensation rates for surviving spouses and children of veterans. The increased amounts will not be reflected in the regular November checks, but will be provided by means of supplemental checks.

The rate boost means an increase from $54 to $58 per month for a veteran with a disability rated at 10 percent. A veteran with a 50 percent disability will receive $328 a month, up from $291, and a veteran with a 100 percent disability will receive $1,130 a month, up from the current $1,016.

The legislation also increases the annual allowance made to certain veterans whose artificial limbs cause wear on their clothing. It goes from $274 to $305. VA's assistance allowance toward purchase of a specially adapted automobile or other eligible vehicle by certain handicapped veterans was increased by the new legislation to $4,000 from $3,800.

VA may now make these payments to certain veterans suffering from service-connected atherosclerosis of one or both knees when specially adapted vehicles are deemed by VA to be necessary in meeting state driver license requirements. In another area, the legislation increases to $35,000 the maximum amount of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance and Veterans' Group Life Insurance that may be purchased by eligible veterans.

It also permits VA to guarantee, for the first time, graduated-payment home mortgage loans. And it increases to $32,500 the assistance the agency may provide to certain disabled veterans for adapting their residences to, for example, the requirements of wheelchair-bound individuals. VA may furnish a headstone or marker to commemorate veterans whose remains have not been recovered or identified, were buried at sea, were donated to science, or were cremated and the ashes scattered without burial of any portion.

purchased by Massa. The firm has no connection with the Stix, Baer & Fuller department stores.

The affidavit alleges that some of officers and clients systematically looted private accounts of the brokerage house, usually through Brimberry.

It is explained that conspirators illegally diverted cash and stocks from Stix, converting the securities and money to funds available for their personal use. At least some of the illicit proceeds were not reported on participating individuals' income tax returns, documents asserted.

The brokerage empire, consisting of offices in several cities and hundreds of employees, entered the public phase of its collapse when a search warrant was executed on Nov. 4.

The warrant was directed at all offices and areas of the 3rd, 6th, 7th and 11th floors of the Security Building, 319 N. 4th St., St. Louis, that are managed or controlled by Stix & Co., Inc.

Sought were microfiche records of customer accounts, cancelled checks and drafts of Stix, customer authorization records and forms, records of Stix stock purchases, subordinated loan agreements and related loan account ledgers, disbursement checks for interest paid on subordinated loans, daily packages of computer input, records of wire transfers, "buy" and "sell" tickets, and correspondence files of Arnstein and Brimberry.

U. S. District Court documents indicate that the search was based on five potential crimes—violation of the Internal Revenue Code, wire fraud, mail fraud, manipulative use of wire transfers, "buy" and "sell" tickets, and correspondence files of Arnstein and Brimberry.

Wehrheim is described as a federal agent with 22 years of experience in investigating such matters as filing of false tax returns and evasion of income taxes.

He said Nov. 2 that he had interviewed Brimberry and was told that conspiratorial acts were discussed by Brimberry with Arnstein, Maeras, Massa, Miller and others.

Wehrheim says fraudulent acts were facilitated by issuance of phony or bogus stocks, illegal wire transfers of money from company accounts to personal accounts, and fraudulent mailings of statements and other documents reflecting stocks and transfers.

Brimberry was quoted as saying that records and documents used in furthering illegal acts were being stored and concealed at Stix and in a safety deposit box at the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis. When the box was inspected Nov. 4, there were two folded newspapers inside.

Wehrheim said he visited Stix & Co. Nov. 3 and saw records being kept in a 7th floor safe and on inside desks and cabinets as well as boxes in a storeroom. On the 3rd, 6th and 11th floors, records were contained in boxes and file cabinets, he related.

Brimberry said he outlined the following chain of events:

—Brimberry or one of the other people named would decide that he needed money. There would not be enough in his margin account to cover the cash needed, sometimes in amounts of as much as $100,000.

—Informed of the person's need for cash, Brimberry would draw the requested amount from one of the accounts held by Stix for private customers, without the knowledge or approval of the customer.

—The funds would be transferred to any one of a number of private accounts. One such account, at a Madison bank, was in the name of J. A. Miller, the maiden name of Brimberry's wife, Janice. A Collinsville bank account was described as for Massa's use.

—In order to cover the looting of private accounts, phony documents were created to make it appear that the accounts had not been looted and had a good cash balance.

Wehrheim said independent investigation showed that bank accounts mentioned by Brimberry do exist and that the J. A. Miller bank account, at an Illinois bank and then from those accounts into cash or checks.

If the money was for Massa, Brimberry would cash the check into a Madison bank account and then write a check to cash, according to Wehrheim; Massa would deposit this check in Collinsville.

It is Brimberry's assertion that Massa also received funds directly from Stix without the funds traveling through the J. A. Miller bank account.

Other Stix personnel besides Massa have received funds in a similar manner, according to Brimberry.

Wehrheim says he has investigated the J. A. Miller account of Brimberry as well as other accounts of Brimberry and records of his cash payments to various banks and in Nevada.

These records show an income of well over $1 million in various tax years between 1975 and 1980, the court was told by Wehrheim, who added that Brimberry's tax returns for this period list an income substantially less than that reflected by the documents.

Wehrheim asserts that Brimberry admitted to filing such tax returns and also showed the IRS a portion of the records needed to verify Brimberry's allegations.

It was Brimberry's belief that none of the persons mentioned in the IRS affidavit had listed, on any yearly tax returns and found they were not reporting funds received through a Brimberry scheme.

Brimberry told Wehrheim that, based on his knowledge of Massa, Arnstein, Maeras and Miller, they would destroy pertinent records as soon as they would learn of governmental awareness of a scheme.

In consequence, the IRS said, grand jury subpoenas could result in destruction of records necessary to prove the receipt of income by Brimberry and others. Thus, the search warrant procedure was considered justified.

In return for his cooperation, Brimberry will be allowed to plead guilty to a single tax felony count, if his testimony and cooperation are totally truthful and honest, court documents disclose.

To limit the scope of the search and seizure of brokerage house documents, Brimberry identified an employee inside Stix who could identify to federal agents the proper documents to confiscate in order to prove the looting of accounts.

Brimberry also identified certain of the specific accounts used in the looting, and the agents attempted to locate those precise accounts and information which related to them, good cash balance.

However, regarding the records of daily Stix transactions, all had to be seized, the Internal Revenue Service claimed.

It was revealed earlier that Brimberry's meteoric rise in the company was accompanied by a heavy input of money into Stix by Massa. Some have labeled Brimberry as Massa's "surrogate," since Brimberry worked there each day and Massa was not directly involved in operation of the brokerage.

Massa yesterday issued a categorical denial of all the allegations and said he apparently may need to hire a lawyer to defend himself against possible civil and criminal allegations. He emphasized that he has not been charged with any wrongdoing in the operation of the brokerage.

Massa established $25,000 in credit at the Desert Inn and $10,000 in credit at the Frontier Inn in Las Vegas, Nev.

Brimberry is said to have established $20,000 in credit in 1978 at a casino in Reno, Nev., and had credit of up to $11,000 at a gambling club in Nassau, Bahamas.

Six officials in recent months had discussed the possibility of opening new branches of the brokerage in Las Vegas and in Miami, Fla.

Another source this week said Massa has about 40,000 of the 70,000 Stix shares, each with a value of about $35 before the liquidation. Arnstein was said to have 13,000 shares and Brimberry, 5,000 shares, with the rest divided among several other officers.

In another development, Massa linked Brimberry to the Astro Travel Service in Collinsville, but a spokesman for the travel agency says Dune Skinner is its president and that Brimberry is only a customer.

The spokesman said an expensive four-color copier machine at the agency is used to copy travel brochures for clients of the travel service.

Ride to Colorado vanishes along with man's belongings

Russell Porter trusted a man who said he would give him a ride to Colorado, and he's sorry now. He'd also short $300 to $700 worth of motorcycle tools, $700 to $800 in clothing and a $200 portable television set, not to mention miscellaneous blankets, sheets and pillows.

Porter, of 1225 Madison, on Tuesday, Ave. Madison, met a man named Rick while in Mel's Pub, 1225 Madison, on Tuesday.

Porter had been planning to move to the Denver area. Rick said he was heading for Colorado, with a motorcycle attached to the bed of his bright yellow 1967 to 1969 Chevrolet or GMC pickup in the truck had a green-colored, temporary Colorado registration sticker.

Porter, whose clothing supply included three motorcycle jackets, felt he had found a kindred spirit. The man expressed willingness to take him along on the scheduled westward trip, and the Madisonian began putting his belongings in the truck.

When the last of the items had been placed in the truck, after being obtained from a friend's auto trunk in the Kirkpatrick Homes area at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Rick suddenly departed at high speed.

Porter and the friend pursued him by car but lost contact with the truck in Collinsville's downtown area.

"Rick," if that was his name, is 6-1 in height and weighs 280 pounds. He was wearing a blue headband, white sleeveless T-shirt and blue jeans when last seen speeding away with Porter's possessions.

His black, shoulder-length hair was balding at the forehead. But, although he wasn't really young or in top physical condition, he certainly could drive fast, authorities were told by the saddened would-be hitchhiker.

Rites held for Mrs. Schreiner

Funeral services were held on Oct. 31 at the Lohmeyer-Konant Chapel in Lamar, Mo., for Mrs. Minnie "Mickey" Schreiner, 73, of Lamar, formerly of Mitchell.

She had been ill for several months and died on Oct. 28 in a hospital in Springfield, Mo. Mrs. Schreiner was born in Dade County, Mo., and had resided in the Quad-City area for 25 years prior to moving to Missouri two years ago.

Her husband, Charles Schreiner, who survives retired from A. O. Smith Corp.

Other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. LeMoine Carey of Milford, Mo., and one grandchild. Burial was in the Lamar Cemetery.

to pay $1,729 a month on an $85,000 ten-year loan at 21.5 percent interest.

"If the BDFC could finance $20,000 at three percent, the monthly payments would be only $1.34 and the blended interest rate for the entire amount would be 17.7 percent."

According to the agencies funding the project, the BDFC's goal would be the creation and retention of employment opportunities.

With the help of a new and flexible source of "gap" financing for businesses which otherwise would not expand or locate in this region, local financial institutions would be able to finance some projects that previously could not be considered, it is reasoned.

Every bank in the region will be contacted, as will all local development agencies, chambers of commerce, appropriate state and federal agencies, and many small businesses.

The report will assess potential economic impacts, jobs, income and tax base stimulated by a business development finance entity.

It will identify alternative and preferred organization structures and operating procedures for the finance corporation, and identify sources and potential amounts of funds to establish an initial pool of capital for a revolving business loan fund. The BDFC could become operational in 1982 if its feasibility is verified.

Such projects give some idea of the past and projected work of SIMAPAC, but the commission remains somewhat of a mystery to many Quad-Cityans.

One explanation of what it does is that the commission serves as a kind of "middle man," helping local governments wend their way through the maze of state and federal regulations, procedures and opportunities.

Current president is Paul Lenz, mayor of Alton, and the veteran executive director is Theodore H.

Mikesell. Executive committee members include Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer and Mayors Tyrone Echols of Venice, Mike Sasyk of Madison and Paul Schuler of Granite City, the latter a past president of SIMAPAC.

The commission is intended to serve all units of local government. Most elected and appointed officials are familiar with its programs and staff because SIMAPAC has provided technical planning and managerial assistance to scores of governing bodies since it was established in 1968.

The executive committee notes that SIMAPAC "is not an implementing body. It neither makes laws nor levies taxes. But it is a local resource which can be of help in addressing the development problems and management concerns of local-level governmental jurisdictions."

Major categories of its activities include community planning—survey and analysis, setting goals, writing the plan, setting policy and carrying out the plan.

Information services also are provided, along with preparation of codes and ordinances, graphic services, special studies and research, grant applications, economic development assistance, government management services, environmental assistance and information, safety programs, risk identification and analysis, insurance and risk management insurance and bid specification preparation and review.

Comprehensive plans have been prepared for land use, transportation and community facilities, along with single-purpose plans for park facilities, neighborhood preservation, parking and downtown redevelopment.

Sewer hookup deadline Sunday

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
for the Press-Record

Most residents in the Madison County Sanitary Sewers Special Service Area One will meet Sunday's hookup deadline or have taken out permits to tap onto the district's sewer line, reported Morris Miles, chairman of the county's special sewer committee, who said he expects little litigation to result from noncompliance with the hookup deadline.

Miles said 3,100 homes already have been connected to the county sanitary sewers and an additional 250 permits have been issued, out of a total of 3,700 users. "That just about does it," Miles said, noting exceptions in instances where special circumstances make compliance difficult. He cited as an example Brandon Heights and the Gaslight Walk Apartment area, where litigation and ownership claims are holding up sewer connections.

With those exceptions, all residents of the special sewer area whose property line is within 200 feet of the new county sewers will be required to have their home sewers connected to the county sewers by Sunday night, according to a Madison County ordinance.

Assistant Madison County State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith had previously warned residents that he would pick out a representative number of violators after the deadline and sue them. The sewer ordinance provides for a fine of $500 (plus court costs, if any) for homes not on the sewer line by the deadline.

Smith said grants from the townships have been available for a long time to help homeowners pay all or a portion of the costs and all should be able to tap on by the deadline.

Smith had stated that the district's operating fund is in a severe crisis, because not enough homes have tapped onto the new sewers and the revenue from user fees is not as high as anticipated. About 2,291 homes were on the sewer early in September and budget figures project 3,700 on the line by Jan. 1. The current sewage treatment rate paid by those on the new sewers is $15.00 per month for households. Smith said he is confident that the current agreement with Granite City, which charges $6 per month per household (included in the $15.80 for treatment), can be reduced in 18 months, when it expires.

hereby recommending to the city council that the finance committee meet to study the current and future financial condition of the city, and look into the possibility of eliminating the utility tax and re-imposing the real estate taxes.

"I am certain that changes in the types and amounts of services the city currently offers will have to be made in the future, because our revenues cannot possibly keep pace with our expenses and we must always operate within our available financial resources."

"Therefore, we must take additional steps to further reduce expenses wherever possible and I am recommending that we ask our employees to be more productive and dedicated in the performance of their jobs. I am planning to appoint a committee at our next council meeting to conduct open hearings for the purpose of evaluating our employees on a one-on-one basis. After their evaluations, it will be the responsibility of the committee members to offer recommendations on improving the productivity, dedication and attitudes of our employees.

"I personally believe that taking the opportunity to own and operate our own cable TV system will prove to be a great financial loss to the city of Madison in future years. We must now go forward and choose an alternate financial course for our city that is more desirable to our residents. We take in the future may be unpopular with our employees, but our prime responsibility is to our constituents. "Every day brings a new challenge and a chance for a fresh new start. I feel that we must always maintain a positive attitude about our job responsibilities and make decisions that are beneficial to a majority of our citizens and in accordance with their wishes," Sasyk's letter concluded.

Canvass shows Guest wins in Venice; Tolliver heads board

By VALERIE EVENEDIN
for the Press-Record

Two members were elected, one was almost elected and another was ousted from his seat at an interesting, but sometimes confusing, meeting of the Venice Board of Education Monday night.

Percy Guest, 22, of 200 Roosevelt St., Eagle Park, was declared the official write-in winner of a contest on the Venice Board of Education, following a canvass of the Nov. 3 election votes at Monday's board session. Clerk to 30 persons at the meeting.

At the same meeting, it was announced Board Member John Magliacino had been officially removed from the board. A relative story appears on Page One of today's issue, while two board members who won last year's election, the Nov. 3 contest were formally seated.

Although Guest was a write-in winner for a one-year term, he will actually serve a total of two years on the board due to the decision to consolidate elections in November of odd-numbered years; the next one being in November 1983.

To the surprise of Guest and some board members, however, the newest addition to the school board was not seated at Monday's session, despite the votes being certified.

Specifically, Michael Bilbrey explained state statutes require the write-in candidate to be elected first through Madison County Clerk Evelyn Hovies after signing a statement of candidacy, an economic interest statement and the loyalty oath. The official document to be signed by the secretary of the Venice School Board.

Bilbrey further explained these procedures cannot be initiated by a candidate until the official vote canvass is completed.

Canvass Results

Results of the canvass show Incumbent Alvester Salmond received a total of 21 votes to win a four-year term, including 22 votes in Precinct One (Venice Recreation Center), 42 in Precinct Two (St. Mark Catholic Church) and 147 in Precinct Three (Eagle Improvement Association Hall). Incumbent George W. Wade Jr., also a four-year candidate, received a total of 181 votes—56 in Precinct One, 94 in Precinct Two and 31 in Precinct Three. Billie and Bernice Savage, a candidate on the ballot for the two-year term, received 16 votes in Precinct One and 26 votes in Precinct Two and three in Precinct Three.

The official tally sheet showed Earl Hogan, a write-in candidate, receiving 16 votes in Precinct One and 26 votes in Precinct Two. Confusion over the third winner arose election night when the Precinct Three judges apparently failed to put the write-in votes on the tally sheet. The total number of votes collected by Percy Guest and Hogan in that precinct were not known until a sealed packet from the county clerk was opened during the canvass.

The write-in tally from Precinct Three disclosed Guest receiving 131 votes for a two-year term, thereby making him the winner over Mrs. Savage. No votes were credited to Hogan in Precinct Three, but 12 write-in votes were received by Joe W. Roberts for a four-year term.

Hogan, a former board member, said Wednesday he will consult with an attorney today and is planning to seek a recount of votes. He specified the fact he had failed to tally any votes in the Eagle Park precinct and noted the absence of any spoiled ballots being listed. Although he was defeated for a three-year term on the board in April 1980, Hogan had collected some votes in the Eagle Park precinct, he said.

Prior to the election, Mrs. Savage announced she would decline the post if she should win. Her decision was made too late to have her name removed from the ballot.

Venice graduates who attended Venice schools from the third grade level and is a graduate of Venice High School. He also graduated from the Bailey Technical School, St. Louis.

He is employed as a road maintenance worker by Venice Township and serves as chief maintenance officer and fireman of the newly established Eagle Park Volunteer Fire Department.

Guest, who is unmarried, is a member of the Lovejoy Pentecostal Temple in Brooklyn and a director of the Venice Park Action Committee.

Before the board reorganized, Thomas Fields relinquished his seat. He had served a brief interim appointment on the board to complete the unexpired term of Larry D. Boyd, who resigned Aug. 24, and thereby ensured a quorum at meeting. He did not seek re-election.

During reorganization of board officers, it was voted to change the length of time each would serve from one year to a two-year term, to conform to the new election statutes.

New Officers
Jack R. Tolliver, who has served as board president for five consecutive one-year terms, was re-elected president for a sixth term.

Board Member Wilbert Glasper was nominated for the office by Charles Mosby, but Glasper asked that his name be withdrawn as a candidate.

Glasper recently accepted the non-paying appointment of district treasurer, replacing the late Donald Phillips. He cited the paperwork involved in the bonding process, plus added cost to the district, as his reason for declining the nomination.

Wade was re-elected secretary, receiving three votes to two over Mosby, who was nominated by Mrs. Salmond. Wade has held the secretary's post since September, 1980.

In other action, Glasper was reappointed district treasurer and Bilbrey was retained as board attorney. The First National Bank in Madison will continue to serve as depository for district funds.

Vacancy Remains
Tolliver proposed the name of Gerald Cicio, a former board member, to serve in the vacancy created by Magliacino's removal from the board.

No action was taken on the nomination after Mosby said he believed the appointment first should be discussed by the board in executive session.

It was noted later that two board members left the executive meeting prior to an agreement being reached on the proposed appointment.

Public meetings of the board will continue to take place on the second and fourth Monday of each month, starting at 7 p.m., unless otherwise stated.

Following this announcement, the next designated meeting (Nov. 23), was changed to Monday, Nov. 30, to allow members to attend the Illinois Association of School Boards' state convention in Chicago.

Also approved was a single meeting next month on Monday, Dec. 21, which will eliminate sessions on Dec. 14 and Dec. 28.

Other business enacted, involved authorization to purchase 15 uniforms for pompon squad members at a total cost of $389 and requisitions amounting to $16 for Venice-Lincoln Technical School.

To pay the $5,560 balance remaining for installing the Venice gymnasium floor and a $325 opinion fee to an attorney through the Madison bank in connection with issuance of tax anticipation warrants.

Approval was granted the Venice police and fire departments to use the school facilities for recreational purposes on Thursday nights, from 6:30 until 9 p.m., pending receipt of a certificate of insurance.

Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers stated a $500 per month fee will be charged to lease a driver's education vehicle and that state authorities have not yet responded to an inquiry regarding the possibility of a joint purchase agreement.

Rankin, Venice-Lincoln administrator, reported the nurse-aid training program will be transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis from St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The local hospital is no longer able to honor its agreement with the Venice adult vocational school to serve as the on-the-job training facility for the nurse-aides, Rankin informed the board.

He said that in reaching an agreement with St. Mary's officials, it appears the stumbling block may be the lack of malpractice insurance carried by the school district for its nurse-aid students.

Rankin gave a report on a student blanket liability insurance program offered by Maginnis and Associates, Inc. of Chicago, which provides coverage up to $1 million for an annual premium of $12.50 per student or $21 for a faculty member.

The board agreed to consider the plan and decide a course of action at its next meeting.

Rankin reported 16 students are enrolled to take the next nurse-aid course. Graduation exercises are planned at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 24, for the current class, he said.

Brimberry partner may have been involved in Nameoki purchases

Thomas Brimberry and Attorney James Massa, alleged to be central figures in the disappearance of between $30 million and $36 million from the bankrupt Stix & Co. brokerage firm in St. Louis used to be partners in a chemical firm with a man who allegedly was involved in selling chemicals to local townships for prices far exceeding the wholesale prices of other supply firms, records indicated this week.

Records show that Larry Noel of Hillsboro, Brimberry, when residing at 3313 Bluebird Lane, and James J. Massa, Collinsville, jointly incorporated Century III Research, Inc., in January, 1977. The firm was to engage in the manufacture and sale of industrial chemicals, to manufacture, produce, acquire, distribute, buy, sell, lease and trade or deal in and with all types of goods," according to the incorporation papers. The listed 30,000 shares of common stock without par value and the stated capital was $1,000.

A Larry Noel, who said he represented Universal Laboratories in St. Louis, told the Press-Record in January of this year that he is the father of Mike Noel, the salesman who sold calcium chloride pellets and other supplies to Nameoki Township at prices that appeared to greatly exceed the prices quoted by other wholesalers.

Nameoki Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mehelic told the Press-Record that he dealt with Mike Noel, who was from Hillsboro and was a salesman for Universal Research and Universal Laboratories at various times. The two firms merged Oct. 1, 1980, documents show.

Because of the Veterans' Day holiday yesterday, the Press-Record was unable to check corporate records to determine whether Universal Research, Universal Laboratories and Century III Research, Inc., are affiliated.

In September, 1978, the Press-Record disclosed that Mehelic had purchased two household-sized cans of starting fluid for $5.41 per can, cans of hand cleaner for $4.91 per can, spray cans of windshield de-icer for $4.91 per can and weed killer for $13.95 per gallon, all from Universal Research and Universal Laboratories.

Records show that Mehelic also paid $495 a ton for calcium chloride ice-melting pellets, which was between 198 and $51 percent higher than prices other supply firms quoted the Press-Record. Mehelic defended some of the purchases, saying that the price of the ice-melting pellets "jumps around" according to the season and available supply and saying that what appeared to be excessive prices for week killer was because he purchased a highly-concentrated type of weed killer.

However, Mehelic admitted in September, 1978, that he apparently paid too much for some of his supplies. "I won't be burned twice and I will not be doing business at Universal Research."

In January of this year, the Press-Record disclosed that Mehelic had purchased, without competitive bidding, more calcium chloride from Universal Research, again at a price appearing to be much higher than other wholesale suppliers were charging.

The Nameoki Town Board refused to pay a $1,399 bill from Universal Research Corp. for 50 bags of ice-melting pellets while a wholesale firm which apparently supplied the pellets to Universal said it would have delivered the same materials directly to Nameoki Township for $588.50.

Records showed that Mehelic had resumed purchasing from Universal Laboratories as early as July, 1979, 10 months after he pledged not to do business with Universal again.

Mehelic said he believed that Universal Research Corp. of Dallas, Tex., and Universal Laboratories of St. Louis, were not the same company, although both were represented at various times by Mike Noel, who signed the purchase orders for both companies. When told by the Press-Record in January of this year that the two Universal firms had merged, Mehelic commented, "I didn't know that."

Larry Noel contacted the Press-Record when he learned that Mehelic's purchases from Universal were being investigated again and confirmed that Universal purchases from wholesale supply companies, adds a fair market profit to the items and then delivers them to customers. The customers, such as Mehelic, could have saved some money by buying directly from the wholesale suppliers, skipping Universal, it was indicated, but Noel said that Mehelic probably was unaware of the wholesale suppliers, because they did not have salesmen contact the townships.

"Nameoki is a place where we will never, ever sell again. It is not worth the small profit to get bad publicity. We don't need it," Larry Noel concluded.

3 requests for Board of Appeals

The regular meeting of the Granite City Board of Appeals will be held 1:15 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 18, at city hall, 2000 Edison Ave., in the mayor's conference room.

The following appeals have been submitted:

The Rev. Milton A. Roe of Briarcliff, Pentecostal Church, 80 Briarwood, is requesting a variance for the construction of a garage and storage room two feet from the side of the property line. It is zoned R-2 (single-family residential).

Richard Reinhardt, 2945 Iowa, plans to construct an aluminum building less than three feet from the side property line. It is zoned R-3. John Koester, 2415 Delmar Ave., has asked permission to construct a garage less than two feet from the side property line. It is zoned R-3 (single-family residential).

ARTIST TO RETURN

Morris Katz, "the world's fastest artist," will return to Belleville Area College Nov. 18 and 19 with palette knife and tissue paper to create "instant art." TV courses expanded here

Belleville Area College found a warm welcome when it came into local homes this fall. So the college will repeat this spring, once again via television courses.

Home gardening and 20th Century American history have been added to popular data processing and introductory psychology courses.

"If you have commitments at home, cannot afford travel or babysitting expenses, or work during classroom hours, the TV courses can be your way to earn college credit," a spokesman said. The telecourses also serve as an introduction to college for those leary of returning to school after being away for a number of years.

"You can take a course on TV and decide if college is something you want to pursue," said BAC data processing instructor Don Distler.

He is one of four BAC teachers who will answer questions and test students on material presented in the nationally-produced videotape lessons.

Registration for the courses is under way at the BAC main campus, 2500 Cahill Road, Belleville. Phone registration also will be accepted now through Dec. 31 at 235-7900.

For information on the telecourses, Quad-Cityans may call 235-2790, extension 2003.

GC board elects Moore, Maxwell and Melton

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

George E. Moore, a member of the Granite City Board of Education for the past 16½ years, was elected Tuesday night as school president for the next year.

Robert Maxwell, who was elected to the board in April 1980, was chosen Tuesday night as its new secretary.

New school district treasurer, succeeding Moore, is E. Dewey Melton, who has a total of 3½ years on the board.

Stepping down as board officers were Thomas G. Mofsky, president, and Donald Stucke, secretary.

The treasurer position is unsalaried if held by a School Board member. All the board members receive no salary with the exception of the secretary, who is paid $360 a year.

Under the state election consolidation law, which has shifted board elections from April to November and has changed the terms from three to four years, the school district is to be selected for a one-year period.

By resolution, the board has the power to name a president and secretary for one year only, if it prefers; unless such a resolution is adopted, however, those two officers serve for two years.

At the beginning of Tuesday night's reorganization, it was decided after a brief discussion to set one year as the duration for the posts of board president and secretary. The nomination and election of officers then was conducted.

Seated for four-year terms were Mofsky, with 2,341 votes, and L. Monroe Worthen, with 1,948.

For a two-year term as board member, Melton defeated Alan R. Crider, 2,049 to 1,897.

The official canvass of results also showed that, unsuccessfully seeking four-year terms, Donald L.

Gargac received 1,275 votes, Mrs. Valerie K. Stevens 754, Raymond E. McGee 729, Mrs. Julie Janelle Gates 472 and Eric J. Gyaki, 210.

Ballots cast totaled 4,460 at the 54 polling places.

The new president of the board in Community Unit School District Nine is a retired executive of the Granite City Army Installation. He has been active in a variety of school-related activities, statewide and nationally, and has been teaching business-related courses part-time at Belleville Area College.

Moore is a past president and past secretary of the local board as well as a past treasurer of the school district. He was the board president in 1975-76.

Secretary Maxwell is a former supervisor of training and development for the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel Corp.

Treasurer Melton is a senior data processing systems engineer with IBM. He has been a past president of the Granite City Association of Schools. He has been the superintendent since 1968. His 1980 allowance will continue to be $1,000 a year, and the car allowance of Assistant Super. Frank Kraus will continue to be $750 a year.

Hearing today on city sales tax

By GEORGE ANN MCGEE
for the Press-Record

Granite City Attorneys Irvin C. Slate Jr. and John Papa were scheduled to appear before Associate Judge Edward Ferguson in Edwardsville at 9 a.m. today to answer a court challenge to the constitutionality of the city's added one percent sales tax.

Car dealers Bill Woodmore of Woodmore Oldsmobile, Inc. and Jack Mathews of Mathews Chevrolet Co. have asked the Madison County Circuit Court, in a complaint filed Oct. 28, to issue an injunction, which would at least temporarily stop the tax collection before a permanent judgment can be made.

Attorney William Lucco, representing the car dealers, entered as exhibits in the complaint the city sales tax ordinance, the city municipal code regulating the tax, the state retailers' tax ordinance and a letter sent to local merchants notifying them of the sales tax.

Slate said the city filed an answer to the car dealers' complaint on Monday. In his reply, Slate denies the tax is prevented by the Illinois Municipal Code quoted in the Woodmore-Mathews complaint.

The complaint argues the new city-collected sales tax, technically called the "Supplemental Retailers' Occupation Tax" is an occupation tax. Lucco contends state law limits an occupation tax to one cent per purchase.

The complaint cites the state's "Municipal Retailers' Occupation Tax Act," which authorizes municipalities to impose a "persons engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail." Since the city now collects the one percent retailers tax, which is collected by the state and added to the city's added one percent sales tax, the complaint says the city is not allowed to "impose any addition or supplement" municipal retailers' tax.

Slate wrote that the tax imposed by the Granite City Council is authorized by the Illinois Constitution, "unless specifically forbidden by the Illinois General Assembly and alleges that the Illinois General Assembly has not forbidden such a tax."

Papa said the new tax is a consumer, rather than a retailer tax, and at the Nov. 3 Granite City Council meeting, he presented an ordinance amending the tax to "head off any semantics attack" on the wording of the sales tax ordinance.

The sales tax ordinance now says the tax "shall be imposed upon persons engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail at the rate of one percent of the gross receipts sales of tangible personal property."

The tax amendment says the tax "is upon the purchaser" through retail sales. Papa had called passage of the amending ordinance "imperative" at the Nov. 3 council meeting, but four aldermen who oppose the city's new tax were successful in delaying the ordinance.

Although the council was unable to get the two-thirds vote necessary to suspend council rules to approve the ordinance, a majority did approve the first reading of the amendment. The amendment could be approved at next Tuesday's council meeting.

According to Lucco's complaint, the added sales tax will cause Woodmore and Mathews to "suffer irreparable harm unless the city...be immediately enjoined from enforcing the provisions of the ordinance."

The city denies the allegation.

Woodmore, who formed The Committee for Prevention of Excessive City Taxes, said the effect of the sales tax on merchants who sell higher-priced "large ticket" items such as automobiles, will be to lose most of their customers to communities with no added tax.

Woodmore appealed to the city council to place a ceiling on the tax, or to consider charging car buyers the new sales tax when they purchase their city stickers, but the council turned down his request several times.

The city sales tax ordinance went into effect Nov. 1.

New look at smoking areas

The possibility of taking a new approach to student smoking areas at the two Granite City high schools was discussed Tuesday night by the Granite City School Board, which referred the topic to its policy committee.

Participating in the discussion along with the board was Mr. David W. Smith, principal, and Principal Gilbert Wausley. James Dumont, GCHS South principal, has been hospitalized for treatment of a back and neck ailment.

'Didn't conspire with Brimberry'—Massa

By KARL L. MONROE

James Massa, principal stockbroker and director of the closed Stix & Co. brokerage firm in St. Louis, flatly denies any wrong-doing in the Stix case.

He says that contrary to an affidavit quoting Senior Vice President and Director of Brimberry of Granite City, "I didn't conspire with Brimberry to take any money out of that company that wasn't proper."

"What he has said in this affidavit is not true. If he's made some kind of deal with him based on the truth, he's made a bad deal."

"I've not conspired with him to take any money from Stix. It's plain and simply not true."

As to Stix President Fred Arnstein, also mentioned in the affidavit as conspiring with Brimberry, Massa said, "Fred Arnstein has been with Stix for a long time before Brimberry and I became associated with Stix. There is no reason not to trust Fred Arnstein."

Massa said that he was angry when he saw an Internal Revenue Service agent's affidavit, which he says is not true. He said the affidavit was "leaked" by Federal District Attorney Thomas E. Dittmeier.

Massa says he can't understand why the federal authorities are not producing Brimberry. "It's such an unusual procedure. Usually there is only one answer. You know the facts. You could make a thousand guesses and would be wrong."

He said he is in the processing of trying to find a missing $100,000 and is knowledgeable in the kind of civil or criminal case that might be based on Brimberry's allegations to the IRS.

IRS. However, he said that since Stix had accounts with most of the big St. Louis banks, which hire such attorneys, it might be difficult to find the caliber of counsel he might need.

He doesn't really know if he needs one. "I haven't been charged with anything, and the U.S. district attorney hasn't talked to me," he said. However, "I don't know what the relation of Brimberry and the federal attorney is."

Brimberry's accusations puzzle Massa. "I represented him for a number of years, and I always thought he was satisfied," Massa said. "I just can't imagine why he is saying these things."

Massa said one statement in an account Monday of the Brimberry-Stix case was "that the U.S. district attorney knows it as far as he knows. It said Brimberry's appointment as senior vice-president in 1980 'put placement of the securities in the vault in his hands.'"

Massa said that as far as he knows, Brimberry's duties at the brokerage were not changed from what they had been before he assumed the title in 1980.

State information link for the deaf

Deaf persons will have greater accessibility to information and services of the state under a new program begun by the Illinois Department of Administrative Services. Operators in the DAS Division of Telecommunications answering calls at the state's general telephone number, 217-782-2000, are now equipped with telecommunications devices for the deaf (TDD).

The operators have been trained in use of TDD's and will be able to answer many basic information questions or refer deaf callers to other state agencies also equipped with TDD's. The TDD information number will be available for use 24 hours a day, seven days a week. DAS has maintained a single TDD unit for the past year on a separate number.

"It's our hope that the deaf and speech impaired will have the same access to governmental services as the rest of our citizens," DAS Director Vincent Toolen said.

"We think this is an important first step toward providing total access to state information for the deaf. It is especially fitting we begin this TDD program in this international year of the disabled person."

State operators will be alerted to an incoming TDD call via a high-pitched beeping sound. Communications between the caller and the operator will be typed out on the TDD video screen.

Future use of the TDD units might include pre-programmed messages of frequently asked questions or upcoming state events. The eight TDD units purchased by DAS have the capability to store up to 700 characters within their memory banks for such use. There are 5,000 TDD units owned by deaf persons. An estimated 400,000 deaf, hearing impaired or voice impaired persons reside in Illinois.

New computer expands SIUE access to books

By NANCY BEHRNS
 In the past, library research could prove to be quite a workout at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Going from the card catalog on the first floor of Lovejoy Library to a variety of book selections on the second and third floor—and then back to the card catalog if the book search was in vain—provided an "indoor track" for those searching for library materials.

But, thanks to the new library computer system (LCS) being installed, students and library patrons will have to go elsewhere for their exercise.

LCS, hailed by its advocates as a means of combatting inflation, developing coordinated collection policies and maximizing the use of library materials, space and personnel, will save time and steps for library patrons and staff, according to Don Smith, coordinator of on-line access for the library.

Essentially, LCS is a computer-based circulation system that will enable the library staff to more efficiently manage its own resources. It will also facilitate library resource sharing among academic libraries throughout Illinois.

With LCS, it will be possible to find out within seconds not only if a book is available for loan from Lovejoy Library, but also if it is available from one of the 20 university libraries which are users of the system.

This can be done by typing the essential information, such as book title or author, into a computer terminal, a small machine resembling a cross between a television set and a typewriter.

The user will then obtain information on the number of copies available, where they are located, and whether a copy is available to be borrowed.

The system is an electronic card catalog that can answer questions," according to Smith.

"One of its main advantages is that it can tell you immediately whether or not a book is available in your own library. You don't have to get up to find out."

"Then, if a book is not available in Lovejoy, it will be possible for the computer to search the collections at the other college and university libraries across the state."

"If the book is available from another source, it can be delivered to SIUE within 48 hours by means of a truck-van delivery system for interlibrary loans," he noted.

"What this system really means is that a student has access to a much wider range of materials than are available at any one library," said Melvin George, librarian at Northern Illinois University in Chicago. "It means all students have access to the four million volumes at the University of Illinois."

"There are another 10 million volumes in university libraries across the state that also could be available to a student as LCS expands."

The system will also be advantageous to SIUE students who live elsewhere.

"If a student here lives in Springfield, for example, and wants to go home for the weekend or a holiday, he can go to a member library there and borrow books," said Smith.

At SIUE, there will be 11 terminals. Five will be for public use and six will be for library staffers. There will be terminals located on all three floors of the library. "At the University of Illinois, where the system has been in use about three years, people stand in line to use the terminals, but few bother with the card catalog. LCS is just so much more efficient," Smith said.

LCS is an idea that grew out of efforts by the University of Illinois and the Illinois Board of Higher Education. The system was developed at Ohio State University in the early 1970s when Hugh Atkinson, now head librarian at the U. of I., was an administrator there.

When Atkinson went to the U. of I., the university was "looking for a way to achieve a more equitable distribution of library resources." According to Smith, Illinois is now the largest user of an on-line computer system in the country.

Manning admits his weaknesses; says it makes him stronger man

Mike Manning, independent Democratic challenger to Senator Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) said during a press conference last week on the steps of the Madison County Courthouse that he would like to "publicly clear the air about any and all of my private and political failings in the twelve years that I've lived in Madison County."

Manning says that he held the press conference because he believes that the voters of the 56th Senate

District deserves at least one candidate for the Senate office who will openly discuss his past mistakes before taking his candidacy to the electorate.

"I've been right in the middle of as many human errors as anyone in this district, but as I've been saying to my friends and family all along, the time has come to draw the line on hypocrisy in government. My banker in Mount Olive, Bob Cullison, told me when I first decided to run, that it would be practically impossible to handle being a Christian and a politician at the same time. Well, this is as good a beginning as anybody could hope to make," Manning said.

Manning discussed his self-admitted hospitalization for depressive illness in 1975, his firing from the Illinois Department of Corrections in 1975, a bankruptcy decree following a business failure in 1977, his involvement in the media campaign that resulted in the defeat of two Third Judicial Circuit Court Judges in 1980 and his role as an organizer for the Dan Walker for Governor campaign while on the public payroll for two months during 1976.

Manning said he believes that the only way to stir interest among apathetic 56th District voters is to give them a clear choice between candidates for the State Senate office.

"For someone who fits the classic mold of the depressed, anti-establishment and failure-prone Vietnam Veteran, I have everything going for me," Manning said.

"Like thousands of other combat veterans who have faced serious readjustment problems with their educations, finances and marriages, I am living proof that the system can't keep a good man down."

"With a strong, caring wife, two loving daughters and many understanding friends, I can hold my head high and life will go on. The only time a man is a failure is when he stops trying to correct his mistakes or tries to hide them. In fact, my abilities with retarded citizens and our having been chosen to supervise the new home for developmentally disabled men in Granite City, stems in part from the strengths that my wife, Karin and I have gained from my mistakes. There's some truth to the adage that from every dark cloud comes a silver lining," Manning said.

Manning stated that he will challenge Senator Vadalabene to hold a similar news conference prior to the March 16th primary election.

YOUTH WEEK PLANS. Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, left, and Paul Crake, president of the Granite City Optimist Club, make plans for "Youth Appreciation Week," continuing through Friday. The service club honored area youth at the club's noon meeting today.

Optimist honor youth

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler and Granite City Optimist Club President Paul Crake met late last week to review the Optimist International Youth Appreciation Week Planning Guide preparatory to the Granite City Optimist Club observance of the special week, which concludes Friday, Nov. 13, in the lives of Optimist Clubs.

The Granite City Optimist Club honored at its noon meeting today. Several outstanding young citizens of the Tri-Cities area for their extra efforts given in participation in scouting, music, drama, sports, scholastics and art.

Since 1964, Optimist Clubs have conducted observances that recognize the contributions and accomplishments of youth.

These programs have recognized youth activities such as heroism, church work, tutoring of retarded children, serving as volunteers in hospitals, outstanding school achievement and many other acts of service.

"At times when much press coverage is given to the foolish acts of a few, it is refreshing to learn of the solid and beneficial contributions of today's youth," Crake said.

From its beginning in North Carolina, Optimist Youth Appreciation Week has grown to the extent that the Congress of the United States and the president issued a public law designating National Youth Appreciation Week.

The House of Commons of Parliament also has passed a motion requesting the Canadian government to annually designate National Youth Appreciation Week the second week of November each year.

COAST BLOCKADED
The British blockade was on April 23, 1814, expanded to the whole coast of the United States.

Festival for Children at SIUE

Area children will have the opportunity to laugh at the antics of Spinner the Clown, marvel at a dental magic show and pet live animals at the Autumn Festival for Children at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Tuesday, Nov. 17.

Folk dancing, live marionette shows, puppet shows, Six Flags characters, jugglers and acrobats also will share the spotlight.

Showtime in Meridian Ballroom in the University Center are 9 a.m. for preschoolers and kindergartners and 12:30 p.m. for first and second graders.

Spinner and his ringmaster, alias education professors Don Darnell and Bob Williams, weave through mime the tale of a clown who tries very hard to please his ringmaster with the right tricks. The hour performance can be used by teachers to encourage children to discuss the theme that each person is unique and important. Teachers also may encourage their students to express their reactions through writings and drawings, Darnell said.

Darnell will also exhibit hundreds of drawings and writings he has received from children all over the world in the University Center during the week of the festival.

Before Spinner's performance, Dr. Joseph Sim, a professor in the School of Dental Medicine, will teach dental care through magic tricks. With a wave of his magic toothbrush, he can make plaque disappear.

Dusty Hudson, the mayor of Six Flags, and his buddy, Dandy Lion, will officially welcome each child at the University hairpin drive.

Diana Savoca, a graduate student, will dress as a clown marionette who becomes tangled up in her strings as she comes to life. The children will also meet Chimes, the SIUE cougar mascot, and Bun-Bun, Williams' black-eyed white rabbit.

The complimentary festival is open to all preschoolers through second graders in the community. Space is limited. For reservations, interested persons may call 1-692-2739.

City welcomes Precoat Metals as production begins

Granite City's newest industry, Precoat Metals, opened its new metal coating line during ceremonies involving hundreds of local dignitaries and industry representatives last week.

"We are delighted to be in Granite City and we hope it will be a lasting friendship," said Larry Swaney, president of Precoat Metals, during the ceremony. "We are confident our growth will continue and your growth will continue for the next 20 years. We are proud to add to your economy base," Swaney said.

He noted that Precoat opened its first plant in South

St. Louis in 1961 and that plant is still operating today. Over the years, the plant has expanded and a second coating line was installed. "The continued growth led to this plant being constructed," he stated.

He described the new plant at "a highly-technical process with sophisticated computer controls, highly-developed pollution control and energy conservation." He noted the line, which coats thin-gauge steel for building sidings, appliances and other uses.

The metal strip moves continuously through a 3,000-foot path at speeds of up to 500 feet per minute. The steel, from 20-ton coils, is first thoroughly cleaned, pretreated and coated with two or more different kinds of paint before being cured in two 150-foot-long ovens reaching 850 degrees. The metal then is recoiled and prepared for shipment throughout the country, Swaney said.

He noted that in addition being "unsurpassed in the U.S." in the area of pollution control, the plant also is highly energy efficient, using only electricity and natural gas. Exhaust heat helps fire the incinerator which heats the plant and the paint used in the coating process.

Precoat also was welcomed to the city and the area by Mayor Paul Schuler of Granite City and by James O'Flynn, president of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association during the ceremony.

"We are pleased when a company already here in the St. Louis region decides to expand. It proves to us and others that it is a great place to conduct business," O'Flynn stated.

Schuler said the encouraging of new industry to locate in Granite City has been a high priority of the city since he has been mayor. He said he is glad to have an "anchor" such as Precoat Metals around which to build the new Northgate Industrial Park and hopes other businesses will soon join in the park.

"It gives us a warm feeling to see projects we worked so hard and long on come to fruition," he stated. The mayor recalled meeting with a group of civic leaders back in 1965 to make plans for bringing new industry to the area and said Precoat is one achievement, but added, "We can't rest now."

"We are talking to labor leaders about the A.O. Smith plant. It is quite a challenge, being such a large building, but we feel certain the people of Granite City can accomplish this (attracting a new industry for the Smith building)," Schuler stated.

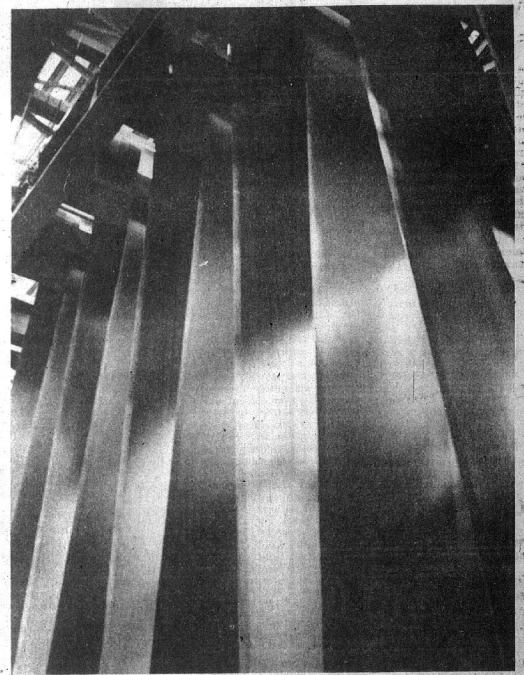

He concluded by pledging to Precoat officials, "We will do everything in our power for a long and rewarding relationship."

William O'Conner, chief legal counsel to Governor James Thompson, spoke on behalf of the governor, and said that Thompson "views this plant as a major addition in his battle to improve the Illinois industrial climate. We have made several advances and will continue to fight," O'Conner pledged.

He announced that the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs has made an

High school students learning about banking

Typically, students have had to go to banks to learn about banking. Today, however, bankers are going to the high school classroom to assist in teaching the technical aspects of banking. This is evidenced by the filmstrip program, "Banking is..." which the First Granite City National Bank has again presented as a public service to the students at Granite City North and South high schools.

Melvin C. Wilmsmeyer, bank president, made the presentation of the multimedia filmstrip unit at the bank to James Dumont and Gilbert Walmsley, principals of South and North high schools, respectively.

In making the presentation, Wilmsmeyer said, "The program 'Banking is...' gives the students first-hand experience with the basic banking activities they will use throughout their lives."

"Writing a check, applying for a loan, computing interest and using a bank's services are things most adults take for granted. We have done them all our lives, but these activities must be learned, and for many of today's students they can be foreign as any new endeavor," Wilmsmeyer said.

Ninety percent of all financial transactions are made by check and the American public will write more than 37 billion checks this year.

Yet, in spite of this, statistics show that less than 85 percent of the graduating seniors know how to write a check properly. So, it is easy to see that checkwriting is an activity that students should understand if they are to take their places in the financial community.

"We hope our sponsorship of this program will help give students a more thorough and systematic understanding of these basic banking activities, the new services that are available, and help them in the management of their personal financial affairs."

"We strongly believe that the more financially-secure students become through knowledge and practice of good banking, the better citizens they become and the better our tomorrow," the bank president noted.

In addition, Wilmsmeyer pointed out that, as part of the program, Thomas E. Hollaway, vice-president, has been designated as student-bank coordinator and will be available for follow-up classroom question-and-answer sessions. In addition, the bank will be given a tour of the bank to see the numerous financial operations at work.

The program will be incorporated into the consumer home management courses and presented to approximately 1,000 students at the junior and senior class levels this year.

Author on cable show

Robert Olen Butler will be the guest on the next edition of the "Coffee Break with Gregg McGee" cable television program. Butler, formerly of Granite City, will discuss his first published novel, "The Alleys of Eden." The book is a love story that takes place in Vietnam.

Butler served in Vietnam in military intelligence and as an interpreter for the American advisor to the mayor of Saigon. The program will be shown on South-Western Cable TV Channel 1, Nov. 16 and 20 at 10:30 a.m. and on Nov. 18 at 6 p.m.

STATE BALANCE DOWN The available balance in state general funds on Oct. 31 was $112 million, down $6 million from the September month-end balance and $297 million less than the end-of-October figure last year, Illinois Comptroller Roland W. Burris has reported.

Baby boom generation boosts workers' educational attainment

Almost as many American workers have attended college as have stopped their formal education with a high school diploma, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor says. About 33 million workers, or 40 percent of all workers in the 25 to 64 age group, had completed a year or more of college in March 1981. As recently as 1970, the proportion was only 23 percent.

This substantial change in the educational attainment of the work force during the 1970s reflects primarily the influx of the baby boom generation, those born after World War II, a spokesman said. Also contributing to this trend has been a tendency toward earlier retirement among older and less educated workers.

In the 25-64 age group, women were less likely than men to have completed a year or more of college.

Black and Hispanic workers were much less likely than white workers to have attended college.

Although the proportion of blacks and Hispanics with some college education has increased in recent years, the increase for white workers has been even greater. Among those in the younger half of the age group, ages 25 to 44, relatively more white (48 percent) than black (33 percent) or Hispanic (28 percent) workers had completed some college.

As in the past, more education was associated with higher rates of labor force participation among persons in all race and ethnic groups in March 1981.

Unemployment among workers 25 to 64 with no more than four years of high school rose substantially between March 1980 and March 1981. In fact, the unemployment rate for male high school graduates exceeded that for female graduates in March 1981, a highly unusual labor market occurrence.

This reflected primarily the cyclical increase in unemployment in industries and occupation groups dominated by men, such as construction and durable goods manufacturing and blue-collar work.

The impact of increased unemployment was particularly severe among black workers at the younger end of the age group who had not completed high school. Among 25 to 34 year old black high school dropouts in the labor force, one fourth of the men and nearly one third of the women were unemployed. These proportions were more than double those of white and Hispanic workers of comparable age and education.

Workers with college education continued to have the lowest unemployment rates. There was only a slight increase in joblessness among these workers during the 12 months.

Concern over Reilly request to discharge chemicals into sewer Unsure what the local impact might be of Reilly Tar and Chemical Corporation's request to drop the state's mercury discharge limit, Terrance McMillan, wastewater plant superintendent, will require the state to conduct a public hearing on the company's variance petition.

If the variance petition is granted, McMillan said discharges of phenol, cyanide and mercury would be "near or very much over the limits" set in the Granite City's new wastewater pretreatment program ordinance.

Reilly Tar, 19th Street and Edwardsville Road, is one of 19 plants which are controlled by the city's recently enacted pretreatment program. Reilly filed for a two-year variance to construct pretreatment facilities, in order to discharge its wastewater to the Granite City plant.

Currently, no Reilly Tar chemical-process wastes are being discharged to the treatment plant.

The city could be in violation of the Illinois Water Pollution Regulations, which limits the discharge of many of the chemicals characteristic of Reilly Tar wastes, if the city's wastewater treatment plant receives and discharges illegal amounts to any waters in the state, including the Mississippi River.

"We don't know if it (chemicals) could be alarming," McMillan said. He said he did not want to be an alarmist in this issue; however, he said a number of questions needed to be fully resolved before any variance should be granted to Reilly Tar by the Illinois Pollution Control Board.

McMillan told the Granite City Council Tuesday that, as a home rule city, it had a "valid ordinance" on the books, requiring Reilly to apply for a treatment plant discharge permit, even if the state grants Reilly its request. McMillan said it is "my understanding we can block it even if state grants" the petition.

"If they (Reilly) are able to obtain state authorization, our local authorities will be hard pressed not to," City Attorney John Papa told aldermen.

McMillan told aldermen that the company now uses a holding pond for most of its discharges, but thinks the use of pond for chemical discharges is going to be phased out. If that happens, he said it would not be fair to have the resulting problems of any particular group passed on to the city.

The council approved McMillan's recommendation that City Attorney Papa make a written request to the Illinois Pollution Control Board for a required public hearing. McMillan made the recommendation after the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency solicited the views of persons who might be adversely affected by the variance.

McMillan said a two-year period is a reasonable amount of time to allow a company to construct a pretreatment facility. Reilly needs McMillan's approval for its plans for a pretreatment facility and he is basing their chemical discharge content on their own permit application.

According to the facility application, the "discharge will violate the phenol limit by up to 600 times and the mercury limit by up to 400 times" the amounts allowed by city's sewer use ordinance.

Mercury is regulated by state law and phenol by the city's ordinance.

Amana is in hot water with its dealers.

That's right Amana, is in hot water with its cooling and heating dealers. But we don't mind. That's because the hot water we're in is hot water you can use: The Amana HTM Plus Heat 'n' Hot Water System.

It's a revolutionary new concept in home comfort systems: a system that not only heats the house, it heats household water. It does it with a water heater unlike any you've ever seen. A 40 gallon heater with first hour ratings comparable to 75 or 100 gallon heaters. Designed without a flue and with high density foam insulation to reduce standby heat loss to 1/5 that of conventional gas-fired water heaters.

The heart of the system is the proven Amana Heat Transfer Module (HTM®). It's a compact outdoor heat exchanger that earned Amana electric/gas units the highest government energy efficiency rating in six different size categories of gas furnaces.

The result is a system that saves 15% to 23% on space heating costs compared to Amana up-flow standing pilot furnaces. And a water heater that could fire up to 14,500 fewer times than a conventional gas water heater over a ten year period.

Find out more about the Amana HTM Plus Heat 'n' Hot Water System. We'd like you to be in hot water with us.

Pack views autumn skit

The October Pack 13 meeting was held at St. Elizabeth School cafeteria and was called to order by Cubmaster Joe Thomas.

The cafeteria lights were dimmed and Den Four cubs displayed a large American flag, accented by lights, while the cubmaster read a narrative, entitled, "Remember Me." The story told of the dignity and respect shown our flag in former years, but now, how that interest and respect has waned. A recording of several patriotic melodies was played during the reading.

Thomas then introduced Mrs. Andy Thompson and Mrs. Joan Achenbach, Den Two leaders, who presented the sportsman awards to Webelos scouts, Eric Achenbach, Brian Bjorkman, Carl Chomko, Stephen Friedel, Michael Patterson, Richard Schaus, Eric Slover, Todd Smallie, Jerry Thompson and Stephen Uram.

Mrs. Janet Neidhardt and Mrs. Joan Yurko, Den Four leaders then presented Bobcat Awards to Kris Barks and Jimmy Knobloch.

Then Cubmaster Thomas opened the business meeting stating that there would be no November pack meeting, but that it would be combined with a holiday pack meeting on Dec. 3. The next meeting will be on Jan. 28. He also announced that Pack 13 would be hosting a chili supper on Feb. 13, and that at the Boy Scout Recognition Dinner, Pack 13 received a National Honor Recognition Pack Award. He added that the pack would be participating in the local Veterans Day Parade on Nov. 11.

While the characters were preparing the Halloween skit, committee members, Mark Veyling and Marvin Wiedemer led all of the cubs in a Halloween game called, "Poor John" followed by a guessing game won by Cub Joe Thomas.

The characters of the comedy "Fruit of the Loom" television commercial then began their parade and skit. The costumed performers were: Joe Thomas, portraying Aunt Emma; Mrs. Joan Yurko, a bunch of blue grapes; Mrs. Janet Neidhardt, a red apple; Mrs. Pam Bjorkman, a yellow pear, and Phil Achenbach, the walking underwear.

Mrs. Jane Kozelek accompanied the performers on the accordion with "Little Brown Jug" and "The Farmer in the Dell." The audience was asked to participate in a game called, "The Duke of York." Refreshments were served after the skit.

Scout advancement charts by Den Two and insect and leaf displays by Cubs of Den Four from work in their Bear Book were on display. Den Two Webelos recently toured the State Police Headquarters in Maryville. This tour fulfills part of their work for their Citizen Badge, it was noted.

Grace Baptist to mark 24 years of ministry

To commemorate 24 years of ministry in the East, the Grace Baptist Church, 2600 Edwards St., will hold special services Sunday, Nov. 15, beginning with Sunday School at 9:30 a.m.

The adult and youth departments will gather in the sanctuary at 10 a.m. for a mini-concert by the well known gospel singing group, "The Sentinels" from Paducah, Ky.

Worship services will begin at 10:45 a.m. with the youth musical group, "Agapec" performing as well as the adult choir, all under the direction of Nick Poplichak, minister of music.

Dr. Bob Jones, host pastor, will deliver the sermon topic to be followed with a basket dinner in the church fellowship hall. The service will present the gospel in song at 1:30 in the afternoon.

The congregation first met in the gymnasium of Webster School on Sunday, Oct. 6, 1957, with 53 people attending Sunday School, and by Dec. 31, of the same year the charter membership was closed with 68 members.

Two years later, on Nov. 29, 1959, the members began teaching and worshipping in the new building with a Sunday School attendance of 181.

Many changes and growth took place in the ensuing years and the major advancement was the dedication on Sept. 7, 1969, of the educational building.

Sunday School enrollment is now about 1,000, with 538 average attendance. Several outreach programs have contributed to this growth, including the July 60's Club which is a luncheon Bible study held on Wednesdays for senior adults, a Sunday morning Bible Class at the Colonnades Nursing Home and the necessary institution of a children's church program due to the large number of youths transported to the church by buses, on Sunday mornings.

In 1980, the church was second in the Illinois State Baptist Association for the number of baptisms with 93 baptized. During the past three months, 47 have been added to the church by baptism, and 16 have come into the fellowship from other Baptist Churches.

The president asked for volunteers for the pancake and sausage breakfast and bazaar planned for March 7 at Sacred Heart. Final arrangements for the holiday event will be announced later, she added.

Mrs. Schmedake reported that the first grade was the winner of the membership contest and each child will be given a treat as a prize.

Sister Louise, a Notre Dame nun from the Maria Center in St. Louis, was the featured speaker for the evening. She spoke on communication between parents and children and added that encouragement versus praise was highly recommended for the best results. STET, Systematic Training for Effective Teaching, a program currently in force in the Catholic Elementary Schools in the Quad-City area emphasizes encouragement as one of its basic techniques, the speaker noted.

Also attending the meeting were the Rev. Joseph Lawless, pastor of St. Joseph Church, and the Rev. James Shortal, pastor of Sacred Heart.

Q. Part of President Reagan's economic recovery plan calls for a return to the gold standard. When did the U.S. go off the gold standard, and what does the administration hope will be gained?
A. Although one hasn't been able to trade a paper dollar for an equal amount of gold since 1922, President Nixon signed an executive order in 1971 which actually took the country off the gold standard. The Reagan administration hopes a return to the gold standard which means, literally, that you will be able to exchange dollars for gold on demand, will accomplish two things: First, it will remove the power of the Federal Reserve to create money at will, in effect the Federal Reserve will only be able to print as much money as there is gold to back it. Secondly, the administration hopes gold backing will instill a new confidence in the value of the dollar. Both of these effects are believed may help break inflation and lower interest rates.

Honor those who gave the supreme sacrifice

Veterans Day 1981 marked the fourth anniversary of the return of the observance to Nov. 11 and the tradition of honoring the unknown soldier at Arlington on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month.

From 1971 to 1975, Veterans Day was observed on the fourth Monday in October, in compliance with a 1965 law that changed most national holidays to Mondays.

In 1975, Congress responded to public feeling that the Nov. 11 date was too significant to abandon. Effective in 1976, and on the 60th anniversary of the World War I armistice, a law was passed returning the holiday to Nov. 11.

With the return of the observance to the armistice date of that "war to end all wars," this year's observance yesterday was an event since 1976 and to more than 30 million former servicemen who served during both war and peace. More than half of the men and women who have worn their country's uniform in wartime are still alive. Of a total of 39,394,000 war participants — going back to the earliest days of the nation — 25,789,000 war veterans are still living.

Another 4.2 million living veterans saw only peacetime service. By far the most costly of America's wars was its Civil War. That conflict was 364,000 deaths in the Union army and an estimated 135,821 Confederate deaths. (Authoritative statistics are not available for the Southern casualties.)

In contrast, 290,000 Americans fought in the Revolution, and 4,000 died in service. Out of 287,000 American participants in the War of 1812, 2,000 lost their lives in service. During the Mexican War only 79,000 Americans were in uniform, yet 13,000 died in service. In the Spanish-American War, 11,000 of the 382,000 U.S. participants died in service.

A total of 4,744,000 answered the country's call to arms in World War I and 116,000 died. World War II was the greatest number of Americans ever in uniform — 16,535,000 men and women. There were 406,000 deaths in service during that conflict.

During the Korean fighting, 6,807,000 saw service, and when it was over in 1955, 55,000 had died. A total of 9,834,000 Americans were in service during Vietnam Era fighting. Of that number, 47,000 deaths were due to action of hostile forces.

Theme of the evening will be "Blossoms of Life," which will record the organization's growth and strength.

NON-EMERGENCY AMBULANCE SERVICE AVAILABLE

It is a direct result of the laws of nature that we age. In our hastiness to judge the elderly, we must not forget that it is through no fault of their own that they have become old. Quite to the contrary, the elderly are to be revered for their ability to withstand the withering toll which time must ultimately exact from body and mind. More and more today, we encounter an older person who describes him/herself as a young person trapped inside an old body. This is a remarkable commentary on our aged. They have liberated their minds to the point where they think it is not too late to establish and attain many of life's goals.

Life goals are often similar for a great many people. One well sought after goal is a life that may be lived to the very end with dignity. Such dignity can be established in life as well as reflected when one passes on. Proper attention to one's history, wishes and lifestyle can lend itself to an interment service filled with dignity and proper respect, a service that will serve as a tribute to one's life. At MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES we lend our professionalism in affording dignity to all aspects of ones lives as well as one's passing.

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

Senior citizens deserve every bit of encouragement and help that we can muster. For one day, we will replace them as society's old guard.

Treat cause, not symptoms of children's misbehavior

By CATHERINE MAUCK
County Homemaking
Adviser

All children misbehave occasionally during the growing-up process, and doing so is a normal part of development. But knowing that doesn't always make parenting any easier.

Parents and other caregivers can better deal with problem behavior if they first understand the reasons behind it and learn how to deal with them.

If we want to help a child who is having behavior problems, we need to discover the cause of the behavior and treat the cause — rather than the symptoms or actual misbehavior.

Behavior is an outward sign of inner feelings and goals. A child may have a particular need or goal and may select any one of several behaviors available to him or her, depending on how effective those behaviors are in fulfilling the need or goal.

For example, a child who has a need for attention might select the behavior of hugging, crying or asking questions to try to gain that attention. It sometimes takes quite a bit of detective work to find the cause of the child's behavior.

Misbehavior can be a symptom of a problem in a completely different area of a child's life. For example, one who is insecure and unhappy at school may become negative and uncooperative at home.

Dealing with the negative and uncooperative behavior at home may reduce or eliminate that particular behavior. But if the child's basic need to feel secure at school is not met, the maladjustment will eventually show up in some other area of his or her life.

Most of the common misbehaviors of children — rebellion, refusal to eat, stealing, lying, fighting refusal to go to bed — are directly linked to their basic needs.

Those needs include the need to feel safe, to have control over their environment, to be loved and to have their feelings accepted.

Some behaviors develop when a child — even a very young child — is not allowed to take responsibility for his or her own actions and feels powerless to control the environment.

An infant who is on a very rigid feeding schedule is likely to develop sleeping problems in her or his attempt to feel in control of some parts of his or her life.

There are three key ideas for parents and other caregivers to keep in mind when dealing with behavior problems.

—There is a cause for all misbehavior.

—Misbehavior is only a symptom of the cause.

The cause behind a behavior problem must first be discovered before the misbehavior can be dealt with successfully.

The adult who first becomes acquainted with a child's beliefs and assumptions about life will find it easier to discover the cause of his or her behavior and misbehavior.

The key to dealing with misbehavior is to remember there are no bad children, only misguided or uninformed ones.

Griffin's comeback ousts Steelers, 15-7

Cyclones' Mosely is too much in second half

By ROGER KRAMER
for the Press-Record

SPRINGFIELD — Despite a strong offensive and defensive effort by Granite City North in the first half of its preliminary round game in the IHSA Class 5A football playoffs Wednesday night, the Steelers lost to Springfield Griffin, 15-7 and were eliminated from the playoffs.

North, which finished the season with a 7-3 record and qualified for the playoffs for the first time since 1974, controlled the pace of the game in the first half, but Griffin's Mark Mosely scored two touchdowns and the Cyclones' defense limited North to only nine net yards in the second half.

"I thought Griffin overcame their problems in the first half, and I think we didn't execute as well as we did in the first half," North coach Tom Wyrostek said. "Their defense controlled the game, and we couldn't get anything going. I guess we were tired."

Both North's offense and defense dominated Griffin in the first half. The offense showed its strength on the Steelers' first offensive series of the game.

A 45-yard punt by Griffin's Bill Bosway forced North to start that series from its own three yard line. On third down at the nine, the Cyclones were called on a face mask penalty to push the ball to the 24. Two plays later, North's quarterback Carl Luehmann used a reverse keeper to gain another first down.

The big play of the drive was a 47-yard pass play from Luehmann to Brad Watson which moved the Steelers from their own 40 to Griffin's 17 yard line. Two plays later, Luehmann ran another reverse keeper for a five yard touchdown run with 4:54 left in the first quarter. Daren DePew's extra point kick was good.

North's defense stopped a Griffin drive that penetrated the Steelers' 30 yard line, sacked quarterback Paul Venturini twice for a total of 28 yards, and had interceptions by Scott Corey and Watson. The Steelers held Mosely to 32 yards rushing in the first half.

"We just had a lot of problems on offense in the first half," Griffin coach Robin Cooper said. "We couldn't get anything going on offense, and penalties hurt us both ways.

"If I would have known what was wrong, I would have tried something else."

North might have given Griffin the opportunity to come back when it failed to capitalize on a second quarter drive.

North had the ball on Griffin's 38 yard line. After an illegal procedure call against North moved the ball back to the 43, the coaching staff from Venturini to give Griffin an 8-7 lead.

ROAD BLOCK. Granite City North's Daren DePew (43) is gang-tackled by a Springfield Griffin defensive contingent Wednesday night during his team's 15-7 IHSA Class 5A playoff loss at Springfield. Among the tacklers for Griffin is linebacker Dennis Selinger (52). Watching the play in North's Bill Zimmer (67). North, champion of the Gateway East Conference, finishes its season with a 7-3 record. Griffin, now 9-1, will advance to the next round of the playoffs, Saturday at Champaign Central High.

Griffin clinched the game in the fourth quarter with a time consuming drive consisting of nine running plays and just one passing play — the first play of the series. Mosely scored the touchdown on an eight yard run around right tackle. Greg Griffith kicked the extra point.

North had two chances to try to tie the game. Griffin read DePew's fake put on a fourth down and five situation at the North 38 on the first series and tackled him for a ten yard loss. DePew recovered a fumble two plays later.

North tried three pass plays in the second series. The first two passes were incomplete, and the last one was intercepted by Griffin's Mike Ryan with four seconds left in the game.

Mosely ended up with 132 yards rushing in the game. The senior fullback averaged 140 yards a game during the regular season.

"We've got to get the ball to him if we're going to do anything," Cooper said.

"We didn't do anything different in the second half except execute the plays better," he said.

"When they began to run the ball inside more, we became too concerned about it and started going for the spot instead of the zone defensively," Wyrostek said. "It was a break in team concentration."

Wyrostek was disappointed with the outcome of the game, but not the effort his team made.

"I'm very proud of all the kids. It was a team effort that got us here. We had good kids and they wanted to go on in the playoffs. They didn't want to play just one game," Wyrostek said. The Steelers, champions of the Gateway East Conference, got what they wanted this season — and almost more.

Baker tabs Kahoks as favorites

By PETE HAYES

PALATINE — Gene Baker will make his seventh straight trip to the Illinois State Soccer Tournament this weekend at Palatine, Fox and High School, but for the first time since 1974, he'll be a spectator instead of a participant.

Baker, the successful head soccer coach at Granite City High School, will be able to take it a little easier this weekend than he has in the past. His South teams captured the last five state championships. But there won't be a sixth in that string this season. Collinsville High's Kahoks took care of that matter last week when they beat the Warriors 1-0 in the semifinals of the Collinsville Sectional.

Upstate reaction to South loss

"It'll be a little different," said Baker. "But I'll be there. I have some people to see and places to go." Baker has made some connections while establishing himself as the dean of Illinois prep soccer coaches.

The monkey is off the Warriors' backs, so to speak. Nothing more to prove. The pressure to represent Southern Illinois at the State Finals is finally on some team other than one from Granite City.

This marks the first time ever that a team from a city other than Granite City has advanced from the Southern Illinois sectional tournament. In 1972, before Granite City North and South split into two separate schools, the Granite City Community High School Warriors, under the coaching of John Sellmeyer, won the first-ever State Soccer Tournament with a 2-1 double-overtime victory over New Trier West at Hancock Stadium at Illinois State University. In 1974, Granite City North, behind Coach Bob Kehoe, advanced from the Southern sectional with a thrilling penalty kick victory over Granite South. But the Steelers were upset in the first round of the State Finals at Huskie Stadium at Northern Illinois University. The other six years, Granite City South has been the Southern Illinois representative. Five times, the Warriors have come home with the state championship, once they have come home with the third place trophy (the Illinois High School Association has since abolished the last place game).

"I think Collinsville will be the best team up at the tournament," said Baker. "They've proven they can play under pressure, and that's what it takes to win the state championship."

"For the first time since 1975, there will be two downstate representatives among the 'Elite Eight,' Quincy Notre Dame, which along with Quincy High had been entered in the Southern Illinois Sectional, played instead in a newly-created Central Illinois Sectional and breezed through with nary a worry, save a 1-0 sub-sectional win over Quincy."

There is plenty of state championship hardware in Granite South's trophy case, so much in fact, that it's always said that we're the state champs until somebody knocks us off," said Baker. "Well, Collinsville did, and now we wish them luck. I hope they can keep the state championship trophy down where it belongs."

"Well, Collinsville did, and now we wish them luck. I hope they can keep the state championship trophy down where it belongs."

"We've always said it was a privilege and an honor to represent Southern Illinois at the state tournament," said Baker. "Some schools go a lifetime and don't win a state championship in any sport. We're pretty lucky."

"I hope Collinsville does well," said Baker. "They've earned the right to go to State."

Meet Illinois Prep Soccer's 'Elite Eight'

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

PALATINE — It'll be a bit different here this weekend when the "Elite Eight" of Illinois prep soccer meet to decide who's the best. For the first time in six years, they won't have Granite City South to kick them around anymore.

South, which won the last five state championships, was knocked out of the running for this year's crown last week by Collinsville in sectional semifinal play. It is the first time in the history of state soccer playoffs that a Granite City team will not advance to the State Finals. So, naturally, it's Collinsville's first trip ever to the State Tournament. But the Kahoks aren't alone, three other teams (Prospect, Homewood-Flossmoor and Quincy Notre Dame) are also making their first appearances at the State Finals. Two schools (Maine South and Glenbrook North) and making their second appearances. Two schools (Chicago Bowen and Hickley-Big Rock) are making their third straight appearances.

Game One

vs. Maine South (13-4-2)

The first quarterfinal game of the tournament, set for Friday at noon, will pit Prospect, one of the top-ranked teams in the state all season, against Maine South, a team on a roll. The Prospect Knights, behind the coaching of Walter Bachir, have earned the respect of Maine South coach John Tilley. "They'll probably be favored," said Tilley about Prospect. "With a record like theirs they'll have to be. But our team feels it can win. We haven't lost since the first week of October."

Maine South's Hawks feature a stout defense that's just beginning to jell. "We start three junior fullbacks," said Tilley. "They're just now beginning to play well together." The key to the defense is sweeper-back Hans Ehliert, who takes care of business in the backfield. Tilley is blessed with two outstanding goalies — Nick Mitrovich and Rich Smith — who split duties early in the season until Smith suffered an injury which relegated him to the backup role. Both are seniors. On offense, the Hawks are led by All-State Marty Leever who has scored 22 goals this season.

Prospect has been a virtual offensive juggernaut in the playoffs, scoring 14 goals and allowing just four goals against. Maine South has scored 11 and allowed four. Prospect standouts include Dan Braun and Striker Mike Scialo.

Game Two

vs. Hickley-Big Rock (20-10)

Hickley-Big Rock — the Cinderella team of two seasons ago and a major disappointment at the State Finals last season, is back again. The Royals will be making their third straight tournament appearance against Collinsville's Kahoks. But it won't be the first time the two teams have met. The last time let's call it a bad taste in both teams' mouths.

Early last season, the Royals played at Collinsville in a game that turned into a near brawl — pitting two very physical teams against each other. Hickley-Big Rock (Continued on Page 23)

Mendoza does it—again

GRANITE CITY — Danny Mendoza, amateur boxer from Granite City's Mexican Honorary Commission team, is on a roll. He won a unanimous decision Friday over Arthur Jummerson of Wellston Boxing Club on an area fight card.

Mendoza will fight this Friday at 8 p.m. on a card at the Plantation Dinner Theater.

Next Tuesday, several MHC boxers will take part on a card at the Belle-Claire Fairgrounds in Belleville. Terry Davis will fight in the sub-junior 70-pound division, Joe Garceff will box in the 100-pound division, Bryan Baser will fight as a 130-pounder and Jack Rainy will box in the 140-pound division. The action will begin at 8 p.m.

Teams needed

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Park District is currently looking for more teams in its Men's Broom-ball League. Broomball is a form of ice hockey using a broom as a stick, a small ball as a puck, and wearing tennis shoes instead of sports shorts

skates. All players must be 18 years of age by Nov. 1 of the current year. The entry fee is $85 per team and includes a 12-game schedule. Games are played on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. For additional information, contact the Park Office at 877-3069.

Perkins to direct

GRANITE CITY — Venice area youngsters will have an opportunity to sign up for the 1981-82 YBA Basketball season, sponsored by the Tri-City Area YMCA.

Boys or girls, ages 8 to 12 will be accepted for YBA competition on a first-come, first-served basis. Games will be played Saturdays at the Venice High gym. Registration will be limited to 80 youngsters.

Ken Perkins, teacher and head coach at Venice High, is in charge of the program. "Following registration, players will be assigned to teams and leagues. Every boy and girl who signs up will be on a team and will play. Practice will begin Nov. 14, with league play to begin the first week of December," said Perkins. YBA, sponsored jointly by the YMCA and the NBA Players Association, is the first youth sports program open equally to boys and girls.

For information on YBA Basketball, call the Tri-City Area YMCA at 876-7200, or see Perkins.

Fun Runs are set

GRANITE CITY — A pair of "Fun Runs" has been scheduled for tonight (Thursday) at the Granite City High School track. A mile-run will begin at 7:45 and a two-mile run will begin at 8:30. The runs will conclude the fall session of the local "Jog/Walk" program.

There is no entry fee. Intramural ribbons will be awarded to the top finishers in the following age groups: 10 and under, 11-20, 21-35 and 36 and over.

Hockey clinics

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Amateur Hockey Association is offering two clinics for children ages 5-10, covering skating skills along with an introduction to the basics of ice hockey. The first sessions of the clinic will be held on five consecutive Mondays from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. beginning Nov. 16. The second clinic will begin Jan. 4, for five consecutive Mondays, from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Instruction will be provided by certified amateur hockey coaches.

The registration fee is $20 covering both clinics. Application may be made by sending your check made payable to Granite City Amateur Hockey Association, P.O. Box 66, Granite City, Ill. 62040. William Schreiber, president (877-4937) or Beverly Brown, secretary (451-6584) may also be contacted for further information.

Upstate soccer teams glad GC South was eliminated

PAINTINE — When word came here last week that five-time defending state soccer champion Granite City South, ranked number one in the state all season, had been beaten by Collinsville in sectional play, a collective sigh of relief came out from Chicago area prep soccer coaches. At last, there'll be a new state champion.

"My reaction was, 'Thank God!'" said Glenbrook North coach Dr. Michael Radakovich. "Not so much that Gene Baker (South head coach) would be up here, but that finally, some other team would have a chance."

"I think other teams up here would tense up when they played South in the tournament. I've seen several instances when I didn't think South was the better team talent-wise, but Gene Baker's coaching and preparation would win the game."

And playing in the State Finals for six straight seasons — and winning it five — didn't hurt, either.

Other coaches echoed Radakovich's sentiments. "People told me early on in the season that Granite South might not make it up here this year," said Hinckley-Big Rock coach Larry Peppers, whose Royals are themselves making their third straight trip to the tournament. "It's sad, but it had to end sometime."

John Tilley, head coach at Maine South High, said, "I think it opened up the tournament more this year. A lot of people are saying that Glenbrook North or Prospect have an open door, but they're forgetting that Collinsville has to be a pretty darn good soccer team to beat South and make it up here."

"Collinsville's got a very good record. They've beaten some good competition along the way. They look to be a very solid team."

Conrad Kowal, director of community relations for the Chicago Sting of the North American Soccer League and editor of the Sting's Prep Soccer Newsletter, said, "The reaction up here at first was one of total shock. People naturally expected South to be up here. A lot of the players on these teams can't even remember when Granite City WASN'T the state champion."

"It'll be interesting this season at the state tournament," said Kowal. "But somehow, it just won't be the same."

— PETE HAYES

Preview

coach Larry Peppers pulled his team off the field at one point and referees eventually halted the game with about three minutes remaining because of the rough play and fighting. Collinsville got credit for a 3-0 victory. "That was early on," said Peppers. "I don't think it'll have much of an effect on the teams now."

Peppers thinks his team could be peaking at the right time.

Hinckley will be led by senior forwards Dule Kaus and Craig Cooper, who have scored 30 and 16 goals respectively. Goalie Doug Waldechmidt has recorded 10 shutouts, including a 1-0 win over co-quarterfinalist Chicago Bowen.

Collinsville, meanwhile, is as hot as a team can possibly be. The Kakohs have emerged from the toughest sectional in the state — the one that has produced six state champions and a third place finisher in the nine years of the tournament.

Game Three

Chicago Bowen (15-3-0)

vs. Homewood-Flossmoor (22-2-0)

The Bowen Boiler-makers seem to be a team of destiny. Making their third straight trip to the tournament, they have to feel they are due. Bowen, behind phenomenal coach John O'Leary, has come from virtually nowhere to become one of the top soccer teams in Illinois. A financially poor inner-city school, Bowen doesn't have a soccer field of its own. The team has to travel over five miles to practice. The amount budgeted for the team is next-to-nothing. But O'Leary perseveres. Last season, Bowen nearly knocked off Granite South in the semifinals before losing after four overtimes, two sets of penalty kicks and a set of sudden-death penalty kicks.

Homewood-Flossmoor's Vikings have followed the coaching of Murphy Liang to the Elite Eight. A defensive-minded outfit, the Vikings have shut out all of their post-season tournament opponents. But offensively, they haven't exactly scorched the nets, scoring only five times. Vikings to watch are David Jaworski (20 goals) and Alex Napoli (17).

Game Four

Quincy Notre Dame (26-4-1)

vs. Glenbrook North (17-1-1)

The final quarterfinal game, set for 7:30 p.m., will feature another downstate power against one of the favorites in the field. Glenbrook North has been a buzzsaw this season. One of the teams that felt victim was highly-regarded New Trier, the combination of New Trier East and West. They lost to the Spartans 3-0 in sub-sectional play.

Glenbrook will be led by two All-Stars, Greg Sommer and Dave Corfield. Sommer has scored 16 goals, while Corfield anchors down a tight defense from his sweeper-back spot. Should opponents find their way through the Spartans' defense, they'll have to contend with highly-regarded goalie Doug Irvine. "He's as good as I've seen," said Radakovich.

Notre Dame, meanwhile, is no stranger to Southern Illinois fans. The Raiders of Coach Al Knepper have been previously entered in this area's sectional tournament and have played many of the southern teams. Included in that was a 1-0 overtime loss to Collinsville, a victory over Granite City North and an overtime tie with Granite South. Notre Dame had perhaps the easiest route to the State Finals. After a 1-0 victory over Quincy Senior in their two-team sub-sectional tournament, the Raiders had only to contend with the likes of Springfield and Peoria area schools in the Springfield Southeast Sectional. Mike Sachers is Quincy's leading scorer with 16 goals.

Soccer Cougars 'wait and see' on NCAA playoff berth offer

EDWARDSVILLE — It's down to the "wait and see game" for the soccer Cougars of Southern Illinois at University at Edwardsville as they await the selection committee's decision for a berth in the NCAA Division I National Tournament. The Cougars, who ended the regular portion of their 1981 campaign last weekend with a 2-1 victory over the Air Force Academy and a 1-0 decision over Brigham Young University, will submit a 13-3-1 record to the committee in quest of their 13th consecutive trip to the annual post-season tournament. Opening-round action of the NCAA Tournament must be completed by Nov. 18.

The Cougars opened their final weekend of the regular season Friday as they staged one of the most thrilling games in recent years against the Air Force Academy. Held scoreless through the first 103 minutes, which includes the first overtime period, the Falcons jumped out to a 1-0 lead before a goal by Kyle Hickman.

With time running out on the Cougars, Pat Malloy headed a Bill Stallings pass into the nets at the 106:39 mark to tie the game. Three minutes later, at 109:38 (just 22 seconds remaining in the second and final overtime), Stallings connected on a Steve Gauvain pass from 10 yards out to beat goalkeeper Ralph Cyr and give the Cougars their 12th victory of the season.

The following night, against Brigham Young, the Cougars managed to outshoot BYU 1-1 but relied on a penalty kick by Steve Gauvain at the 75:01 mark to assure the victory. Senior co-captain Mark Downar collected his fifth shutout of the season, while the Cougars pushed their record to 13-3-1 and dropped BYU's mark to 12-1-1.

The Midwest Selection Committee to the NCAA is made up of John McKenzie of Western Illinois, Sholas Hyndman of Eastern Illinois, Richard Lowe of North Texas State and Luis Sagastume of the Air Force Academy. They are expected to make an announcement concerning the selection of the first-round site sometime this week.

'Y' to offer karate

GRANITE CITY — Non-Contact Karate is growing in the area with the start of the second session of Tri-City Area YMCA Karate Club, Beginners and Intermediate, on Wednesdays, 8 to 9 P.M., now through Dec. 23. The session runs for eight weeks and the fee for non-members is $22, $22 for members. The style of karate is Japanese Shotokan. It's past record has shown that injuries are rare, and a survey in Philadelphia has compared it to swimming in increasing cardiac efficiency.

SPECIAL PATIENTS. There were some pretty strange looking creatures lurking around St. Elizabeth Medical Center recently. Many of these unusual beasts could be found in the X-ray department on Halloween night. The medical center x-rayed right or treat candy to check for any dangerous metal objects. The free service attracted more than 300 little Halloween celebrants. Even the nursing staff got into the spirit of Halloween, as Pediatric Nurses Patty Engelman, left, and Mildred Harris dressed for the occasion, much to the delight of their patients Carol Muir, the child in the center, and Terry Fritts.

Speed up processing of firearms ID cards

Governor James R. Thompson has directed the Department of Law Enforcement to clear out a backlog of applications for Firearm Owners' Identification (FOID) cards as quickly as possible.

"It has come to my attention that we have a backlog of applications waiting to be handled," the governor said. "I have asked the Department of Law Enforcement to clear up some 50,000 pending applications as fast as possible so that Illinois hunters will get their cards in time to enjoy the hunting season."

"The department will have the help of a number of people on loan from other state agencies to help clear the backlog," he said, "and they will be working around the clock until it is cleared up."

James B. Zagel, director of the Department of Law Enforcement, has told his department to put a priority on new applications for A highlight of the opening ceremony was an address by U.S. Senator Nancy Landon Kassebaum from Kansas, who is an enthusiastic supporter of the Girl Scout movement. Senator Kassebaum was introduced by Girl Scout National President Mrs. Orville L. Freeman.

In addition to thousands of Girl Scout families and friends, the convention delegates were joined by special guests from national and international organizations and from the local community. Mrs. Bill Hobby, wife of the lieutenant governor, welcomed Girl Scouts to Texas; city councilwoman Christin Hartung welcomed the entire delegation to Houston.

From Oct. 26-28, under the convention theme "Girl Scouting: Where The Future Begins," national council delegates considered a number of business items.

Mrs. Freeman was re-elected national president, and national officers and a national board of directors were elected.

Other convention highlights on Monday included five concurrent seminars in the Albert Thomas Convention and Exhibit Hall. Topics were effective communications, rights and responsibility of lobbying, volunteerism, Girl Scout finances, and societal trends affecting the future of Girl Scouting.

Five gala dinners were held on Tuesday evening. The special themes for these dinners were "Beverly Hills, A Southern Festival" which featured a performance by the Ballet Folklorico of Houston; "Charling Our Global Course," with special emphasis on the international aspect of Girl Scouting; "Salute to Women," with an address by Lincoln, Nebraska, Mayor Helen Bosalis; "On a Clear Day... Can You See Forever?" highlighted by Carolyn Conley, an industrial engineer from NASA; and "Many Happy Returns," a look backward at the last 70 years.

Dr. Rhea Seddon, a NASA astronaut and former Girl Scout, was guest speaker at the convention's closing session on Wednesday. Ten national projects focusing on the water in our lives were announced as part of the Girl Scouts' 70th anniversary gift to the nation in 1982. Projects range from training to help in emergencies such as water shortages, floods, or snowstorms to teaching younger children water safety.

Throughout the four-day meeting, industry, business and other organizations displayed products and resources. Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. had a visually informative display of publications and an audio visual theater of its most recent films, filmstrips, and videotapes.

$426 burglary at apartment

Marilyn Ostresh, 2876 Northridge, reported at 4:25 p.m. Saturday, a burglary had occurred at an apartment at 2825 Warren Ave., from which she was in the process of moving.

Many of the items taken were in boxes, ready for moving, she said. Entry was gained through a window. A partial list of items stolen for which an estimated value of $426 was given, included two tennis racquets, a round dark wood end table, a hanging lamp, gold chair, round kitchen table, bedspread and two pillows, coffee maker, five wall pictures, four plants, hand made decorator table, boxes of bath towels, throw rugs and cleaning products and a vacuum cleaner. Also taken were two telephones belonging to Illinois Bell.

Acid rain plan is called damaging to this state, others

Consumers' fuel costs will increase $3.2 billion per year and 170,000 coal mining related jobs will be lost in the Midwest, South and East if proposed acid precipitation legislation is approved, Peabody Coal Company spokesmen told members of the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee last week.

The committee is considering legislation, S. 1706, requiring a 10 million ton annual reduction in sulfur dioxide emissions by 1990 from utility power plants. "The economic consequences would be devastating to certain parts of the U.S.," Chris Farrand, vice president of Peabody Coal, the nation's largest coal producer, told the senators.

"That's a frightful price to pay when there is no assurance that the bill will have any beneficial effect in terms of reducing acid rain."

Peabody's economic analysis shows that if the bill is approved electricity costs to consumers in 31 states will rise by $3.2 billion annually.

In Indiana alone, consumers' fuel costs would increase by $54 million each year. In each of seven other states — Missouri, Ohio, Illinois, Kentucky, Georgia, Alabama and Pennsylvania — consumers would pay an extra $200 million or more annually in fuel charges resulting from fuel switching caused by the proposed bill.

"Our study shows that 307 million tons of coal valued at about $9 billion would be displaced if coal switching is the method used to meet the sulfur dioxide emission reductions required in the bill," Farrand explained.

"An estimated 98,600 direct mining jobs and a total of 188,000 jobs would be lost in 12 producing states — Illinois, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Indiana, Missouri, Alabama, Virginia, Iowa, Maryland and Tennessee.

"Obviously, the massive shifts in coal production would have other consequences as well," Farrand added, "including lost income from both coal sales and coal-related employment, loss of state and local income and property taxes, and higher budgets for unemployment compensation and other social welfare programs."

Farrand cited studies by D. Volker Mohren, director of the Atmospheric Sciences Research Center of the State University of New York, which show that "even a substantial reduction in sulfur dioxide emissions might well not result in any measurable reduction in acid deposition."

"The processes that result in acid rain are far more complex than anything that has been dealt with in air pollution so far," Farrand added. "It cannot simply be assumed that reducing emissions will reduce acid precipitation."

Dr. Mohren's research indicates that the occurrence and extent of acid rain are not significantly determined by the magnitude of upward sulfur dioxide emissions, but by other factors, such as meteorological conditions, that are not well understood.

"Current law already deals with the question of sulfur dioxide loadings by requiring all new coal-fired power plants to meet rigid emission limit standards," Farrand concluded.

"To impose requirements on existing facilities on the scale contemplated in this bill, rather than await their replacement with cleaner, newer plants, would result in massive and unnecessary economic disruption."

Seek GC man in $36 million stock swindle

Whether Granite City's alleged multi-millionaire Thomas Brimberry is a fraud or a victim of a complicated web of "high-dollar" intrigue is expected to be revealed this week as federal authorities attempt to untangle the maze of conflicting stories about the disappearance of approximately $36 million or more in real or false negotiable securities from Stix & Co. stock brokerage firm in St. Louis. The disappearance of the securities is likely to permanently close the 69-year-old Stix brokerage.

Brimberry, recently named senior vice-president of Stix (not related to Stix, Baer & Fuller department stores) was last heard from one week ago today when he was said to have called his office and reported that he had a dental appointment. He did not call or report to work Tuesday and an internal audit by Stix officials Wednesday indicated that at least $36 million in securities was missing from a security box controlled by Brimberry.

Sources indicated that Brimberry, accompanied by two other Stix officials, followed normal procedure in returning the stock bag to a safe deposit box at Boatman's National Bank in St. Louis Friday.

When the safe deposit box was opened Wednesday, the bag inside was found to contain two Wall Street Journal newspapers and no stocks, according to St. Louis newspapers.

About 15 federal agents served a search warrant issued by U.S. Magistrate David Nove on the downtown St. Louis office of Stix, at 319 North Fourth St. Wednesday and seized boxes of records relating to Brimberry and the missing securities. Trading by Stix was suspended, all securities were frozen and the company was placed in temporary receivership until the questions can be answered.

Spokesmen for Stix contend that Brimberry is in contact with federal authorities and can be reached by telephone. They said they have not been told of his whereabouts, but need to talk to him, if there is any hope of salvaging Stix & Co. On the other hand, U.S. Attorney Thomas E. Dittmeier, said that he does not know where Brimberry is, but would not dispute that Brimberry can be reached.

Stix Attorney Theodore D. Ponfili said in court in St. Louis Friday that he believes the U.S. government may plan to use Brimberry as a witness to implicate other people in the complex stock fraud, if such a fraud exists. It was stressed at Friday's hearing that officials do not know if the stocks are actually missing, or if the stocks were legitimately made.

Ponfili asked U.S. District Judge H. Kenneth Wangelin at the hearing to instruct prosecutors to make Brimberry available for questioning by Stix attorneys. He noted that the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has accused Stix of "fraud and deceit" in connection with the missing securities and said that Brimberry's depositions are "absolutely crucial" to Stix's ability to properly answer the complaints and, possibly, keep the company from permanent receivership, which amounts to liquidation.

Judge Wangelin was told that Brimberry is not in custody of any agency and there are no charges, civil or criminal, pending against him.

Sources indicated that Stix, some of its officers and some outsiders have been under investigation for several months by the U.S. attorney's office in East St. Louis and the IRS.

It was hoped that a part of the mystery would unfold during a hearing at 10 a.m. today when Judge Wangelin is to consider Stix' request for an order to make Brimberry available to Stix' attorneys for questioning.

The judge also is to decide whether to continue the temporary receivership of the firm or to grant permanent receivership, which would put Stix & Co. permanently out of business. There had been no substantial results from that hearing at press time today.

There were unconfirmed reports that Brimberry had been seen outside of his million-dollar Granite City home on Westmoreland Drive about 4 p.m. Thursday and that the FBI had questioned him that same day.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch contends that the search was triggered by an income tax investigation of a Stix employee and that the SEC was brought in to examine some of Stix's accounts for that investigation into what one Stix officer was quoted as saying was "the biggest stock fraud ever to hit this town."

To avoid panic selling of stocks held by Stix, all trading by the firm's St. Louis offices was suspended Wednesday, following the execution of the search warrant. SEC examiners declared that Stix was insolvent (its assets unable to cover its liabilities, due to the missing $36 million), and estimated that the company has a deficit of $14 million to $16.2 million, unless the missing securities are found. Ronald P. Kane, SEC attorney from Chicago, has told reporters, "We have other information that leads us to believe that they (the securities) are not materialized."

SEC Compliance Examiner Michael J. O'Rourke of Chicago has been quoted as saying that certain required books and records, particularly the securities position records and balances, have not been accurately kept.

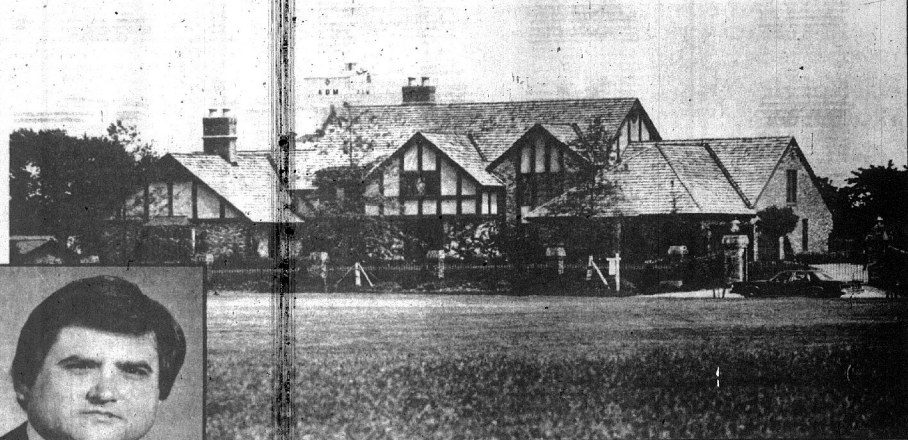

SEC's complaint to Judge Wangelin alleges that Stix used the mails to defraud customers and made untrue statements to conduct a securities business when the company was in an insolvent position.

Attempts to trace the missing securities through an elaborate computer network are underway, but it is a complicated and time-consuming process, particularly in light of the large number of securities involved, SEC officials indicated.

The Post-Dispatch has quoted an unnamed Stix official as saying it is believed that some missing non-negotiable securities are phony and were used as collateral for making stock purchases over the past few years. About a half-dozen fictitious names were used and the address was a post office box in Illinois, the newspaper says.

If fake securities were used for collateral, there either was a massive breakdown of the internal checks and balances of Stix, or more than one person was involved in the fraud, brokers are quoted as saying.

Because some four-color photocopies are so good, they are difficult to tell from the real securities, even by experts, the cashiers of the brokerage houses utilize a special solvent which can tell photocopied paper from original paper. Such a procedure should have identified the fake documents at Stix, but apparently did not, it was indicated.

When an outside auditing firm conducted an examination at the end of September, either everything was in order or the false securities were undetected by the auditors.

The income tax investigation, which may have touched off the larger investigation of Stix, is believed to have centered around Brimberry, an eight-year employee of the firm, who had risen in the past three years from a clerk to margins clerk to senior vice-president in charge of operations. Sources indicated the IRS was particularly interested in looking at the securities held for Brimberry's clients when the search warrant was served.

The role of James Massa, a Collinsville attorney, in Brimberry's rapid rise in the company also is being investigated. Massa is said to have purchased between 51 percent and 66 percent of Stix's stock during the period and Massa and Brimberry had controlling interest in the company, sources indicated.

The Post-Dispatch quotes Massa as saying he is only a director and does not run the company. Asked how much he invested in the company, Massa is quoted by the newspaper as saying, "I haven't really sat down and assessed that fully and completely."

Massa is believed to have put nearly $1 million into the firm when additional stock was issued to expand Stix's

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record

A man of mystery, Thomas Brimberry, disappeared from the operator of a janitor service and a tavern in Pontoon Beach in 1980 to a man alleged to have an estimated $36 million in his possession and the largest house in Granite City in 1981. One might call it an all-American success story.

There is a hitch, however, federal authorities alleged that if Brimberry has approximately $36 million in his possession, the money was stolen and Brimberry is likely to be the target of extensive questioning by federal authorities.

His ostentatious house on Westmoreland Drive, rumored to have cost nearly $1 million to build, will go on the county auction block in January or February, unless the taxes for 1980 are paid on the seven lots on which the house is built. No taxes are due on the house until next summer, since the Brimberys did not occupy it until after Jan. 1, 1981, the start of the tax year.

Thomas Brimberry's life has turned around again. Brimberry never said publicly where he got his "fortune." Even close friends had only rumors of a relative who died and left him millions, and stories of investments in oil wells which struck it rich, on which to base their opinions.

Few, if any, knew how the 37-year-old, normally soft-spoken man had turned his life from one of tavern operator and janitorial service owner to senior vice-president of Stix & Co., one of St. Louis' largest stock brokerage firms.

Duane Skinner, a former Pontoon Beach trustee, who was described by most who knew him as Brimberry's chief assistant, brought the announcement of Brimberry's promotion to the Press-Record in October, 1980. The attached press release said that Brimberry, "a principal of the firm and a member of the board of directors has been with the firm since 1973."

It also stated, "A Granite City area resident for the past 13 years, Brimberry, his wife, Janice, and three children, Christine, Michael and Scott, plan to move soon into a house under construction on Westmoreland Drive." The house, appearing more like a manor, was the talk of the town during its construction as the largest and most elaborate ever constructed in Granite City.

Skinner stressed at that time that Brimberry was a devoted and decorated Catholic and had given money and gifts to St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church in Granite City, where his children attended school. It was noted that in March, 1979, the Vatican in Rome, Italy, honored Brimberry with diplomatic credentials in the foreign service of the government with the rank of Knight of Merit, Sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem, Knight of Malta.

Skinner has not been seen since Brimberry disappeared and neighbors contacted Friday said they believed he had been "out of town" for the last few days. Attempts to reach him or anyone who had seen him recently were unsuccessful.

Brimberry was constantly protected by armed security guards, first from licensed agencies and later by guards hired by a firm he and Skinner established, M&E Security. One guard

Former GC Journal editor sues paper

Alice Curless-Gibson, former editor of the Granite City Journal, plans to seek actual and punitive damages against the Journal for failure to comply with a contract signed June 8. Her attorney, Leon Scroggins, said he would file the complaint in Edwardsville Circuit Court this morning. Mrs. Curless-Gibson, who was dismissed Oct. 21 from her position as editor after only 4½ months, is claiming the Granite City Journal failed to comply "on a continuing basis," as per the contract. The suit claims the Journal sought to terminate that agreement prior to its expiration. The complaint claims the failure of the Journal to comply with the agreement has injured the former editor in the practice of her profession as a journalist and has resulted in damages. She is seeking the money due her, to date, on the contract and damages.

Mrs. Curless-Gibson was dismissed two days after her daughter, Jane Curless, and two other employees were dismissed. Mrs. Curless-Gibson had been the editor since a June 8 shakeup, when former editor George Williams and two other employees were fired. In between the two shakeups, the Journal's President and Publisher Rod Sanders was dismissed.

Mrs. Curless-Gibson's firing resulted in Granite City police being called to the building to help resolve a dispute over ownership of some documents. Those papers were tagged and placed into evidence by the police until the proper ownership could be determined.

Contacted this morning, Daniel Donnelly, current president and publisher of the Journal, said he was unaware of the complaint and had no comment. He said he was not sure when the ownership of contested documents would be determined.

portfolio and enter the bond business, according to Stix President Frederick Arnsperg Jr.

The company, became the 173rd largest brokerage firm in the nation with 10 offices and 113 employees, including securities salesman, sources indicated.

Stix officials said that Brimberry and Massa had been in almost daily communication and one company officer was quoted as saying that Brimberry was "Massa's surrogate" in the firm. Brimberry was Massa's stockbroker and Massa was Brimberry's attorney, Brimberry told the Press-Record this summer.

The Post-Dispatch also quotes Massa as saying "Tom Brimberry, if what I heard is true, has done a terrible thing."

One Stix official is quoted as saying that when Brimberry advanced to senior vice-president, he refused to relinquish his control over the margin accounts, which was his job as a managing clerk, responsible for determining which securities could be used for collateral.

The official contended in published reports that it was a conflict of interest for Brimberry to have sole control over his own accounts.

A rumor that Brimberry had ordered daily financial reports of assets and debts of the company's officers discontinued is being checked. Such a report would have shown any large transfers of stock, sources said.

The court records which led to Thursday's order freezing all transactions at Stix did not contain Brimberry's name, but said that unnamed "officers or directors" of the firm controlled the accounts from which the $36 million was missing. Unconfirmed newspaper reports alleging that the disappearance of the securities were confirmed by Judge Wangelin during the hearing when he said that Terry Wangelin, head of the criminal section of the U.S. attorney's office in St. Louis, was at the hearing.

Judge Wangelin appointed Harry O. Molins Jr., former head of the SEC's St.

Louis office, to serve as temporary receiver of the Stix St. Louis office and issued a temporary restraining order ordering Stix from transferring, selling or disposing of its assets until today's court hearing.

Moline previously liquidated two stock brokerages here. Should he be named permanent receiver today, Stix would be unable to reopen under the assets.

A major question still to be answered is whether the owners of the missing stocks — if they are found to be valid stocks and cannot be found or replaced — will lose the money they have invested. Several Granite City residents have invested funds with Stix, but it is not known if their securities are among those missing.

Arnsperg said he believes all of the firm's accounts will be protected by the Securities Investor Protection Corp. (SIPC) in Washington and none will lose his investment, although it may take some time to replace the stocks and some may lose profits they may have gained between the time the stocks were discovered missing and the time they can be replaced. It has been estimated that it will take at least three months before the frozen accounts can be freed.

Moline pledged that he will do his best to replace securities "kind for kind," where possible.

SIPC officials are quoted as saying, however, that they will replace the stocks, only if Stix is declared bankrupt. If the brokerage survives, it will be up to individuals, their attorneys and Stix to settle the matter. It is not known whether Stix has insurance to protect it against a broker absconding with securities.

SIPC protection does not cover "unregistered investment contracts, commodity contracts or options or customers' interest in a commodity. Also, the stock is frozen in value as of the day the liquidation request was filed, which was Wednesday, Nov. 5.

Stocks which rose in value subsequent to that date will be replaced only at their value on Nov. 5, sources indicated. The group likely to lose the most is the company's officers and those holding stock in Stix, including Massa and Brimberry.

Since SIPC was established by Congress in 1970, it has taken over 351 firms and in only two cases in which SIPC has applied for temporary receivership has it not ended up with full receivership, or liquidation, sources indicated.

Moline has been charged with taking possession of all Stix offices, changing the locks and taking control of all the liabilities and records, according to the court.

St. Louis newspapers contend that the incident is the second involving Stix and Brimberry. They contend that in June, 1980, two customers charged Stix, Brimberry and two brokers with misrepresenting an investment into an Atlantic City hotel and casino. They alleged that they lost $65,000. The newspapers say that the incident was settled out of court, but depositions taken during that incident indicated that Brimberry was interested in buying stock in Las Vegas casinos.

Stix & Co. also was involved in a 1977 case where a St. Louis Circuit Court jury awarded $11,495 to a former Stix officer, who contended the money was owed him as part of an agreement made when he acquired another securities firm, according to court records.

Brimberry is married to the former Janice Miller of Granite City, whose family owned the former Miller Excavating Co. The Brimberys have two sons, 5 and 7, and an 11-year-old daughter. They moved out of their Westmoreland Drive last week and moving vans were seen there Tuesday, neighbors reported.

Brimberry also is said to have sold his fleet of three or four security cars to a St. Louis dealer for half of their purchase price last week. The house has been for sale for several months, but there have been no takers for the home, believed to be on the market for between $400,000 and $800,000.

The broker for the house recently told the Press-Record that no firm price for the house had been agreed upon by Brimberry and that potential buyers would probably have to show proof of financial ability to purchase the house before being shown it or being quoted a specific selling price.

Urge reinstatement of Officer Friendly here

Mayor Paul Schuler said the city will reinstate the Officer Friendly Program as soon as funds become available. He spoke in response to a letter submitted to the council by the Wilson School PTA.

"I think the Officer Friendly Program is an important program," Schuler said, but he has not yet been able to afford to bring back its police dispatchers that were laid off.

Mary Anderson, secretary of Wilson School PTA, wrote members of that group, saying, "We are writing this petition in regards to the dropping of the Officer Friendly Program. We feel that the Officer Friendly Program is a very good program and we do not want to lose it."

"We also feel it is vital for our children to talk to Officer Friendly and know the different things the children should do, and know that police officers are their friends and not their enemies."

Mrs. Anderson stated that the program, "would make a positive impression on our children then we the parents would." The council voted to place the letter on file.

Massa explains his roll in Brimberry's rise and fall

By KARL L. MONROE
Jim Massa, Collinsville attorney and major stockholder in Stix & Co., closed St. Louis brokerage firm, was busy going through records of his own investment transactions with his firm when he interrupted the chore to answer our questions Sunday afternoon. He talked freely about his relations with the firm and with Thomas Brimberry, its missing senior vice-president, but said he was in the dark about Brimberry's disappearance and the discovery that $36 million in securities were missing from the company's vault at Boatman's National Bank in St. Louis.

"I don't know what's been going on. I was out of town when I was called and told the investigation was on. I've been reading the papers like you have, and I've learned more about Stix & Co. than in the 2½ years I've been associated with them."

Massa was reluctant to comment on Brimberry's disappearance or what occurred. "Until they get him back here and question him, we won't know," he said.

He said his acquaintance with Brimberry began in 1974, but it was 1975 before he began investing through him with Stix & Co. Brimberry, who had previously worked for some other brokerage houses, has been with Stix for eight years.

"I trusted Tom completely," he said. Massa said he had bought and sold stock ever since his law practice began producing spare funds. In 1973, he got out of the market altogether for a couple of years, after losing large sums in a market downturn.

The First-Dispatch has reported Massa owns two-thirds of the Stix stock, bought mainly when the company issued additional stock to get in the bond business. It said he put nearly $1 million into the business. Massa did not confirm this, but commented that the newspapers have been very fair. He was impressed by the thoroughness with which they analyzed all aspects of the brokerage business.

It was after Massa put the money in that Brimberry began his rapid rise to corporate senior vice-president in 1980. It was this responsibility which put placement of the securities in the vault in his hands.

Massa's acquaintance with Brimberry began when he represented him in some legal matters. He represented Brimberry in forming some small corporations, and was registered agent, secretary and/or director of a couple of them.

Brimberry was running a tavern in Gaslight Walk,

Pontoon Beach, in 1975. In August, 1975, he organized Miller Excavating, Inc. with Arthur E. Miller Jr. and Jerry S. Maeras. Massa was registered agent but he became secretary in 1977 and a director in 1978. Dwayne Skinner became a director in 1979.

Skinner was a Pontoon Beach trustee and his wife is Pontoon Beach treasurer. He is Brimberry's accountant, Massa said.

Massa noted he has been calling Skinner, trying to find out something about the muddled situation, but Skinner has not answered.

In January, 1977, Larry Noel of Hillsboro (materials salesman), Brimberry and Jerry Maeras formed a corporation to manufacture and sell industrial chemicals. Massa was the registered agent. In the 1979 report, Miller was president, Massa, Miller and Brimberry directors.

Brimberry and Miller formed Rimeo, Inc., in Feb. 1977. In 1979, Miller was out and Brimberry and Massa were the officers. In 1980, Skinner formed Bernate, Inc. to conduct an excavating and construction business.

Maeras and his wife constitute Jerry Maeras, Inc., which operates trucks but has used Miller Excavating's ICC license. Astro Travel, Collinsville, was headed by Brimberry's secretary, Viva Elliot, who is also bookkeeper for Century III.

Honkars, Inc., a chemical company in Florida was a Brimberry firm, but was shut down there and was last known operating in Indianapolis.

Massa said there was considerable litigation involving these small companies. He represented Brimberry in some of them. "He's a very hard bargainer. He won't admit he's wrong, even if he is," Massa said of Brimberry. "We went all the way to the Appellate Court on one case, and lost it because he refused to make a deposition."

At one point, Century III Research sued Robert Sülle, Edwardsville Township supervisor, on an asphalt contract.

Massa is obviously depressed by the situation at Stix. Though not sure what actually happened, he knows he stands to lose all or part of his large investment.

Soybeans catch fire in elevator

Between 1,500 and 2,000 bushels of soybeans ignited during a gas drying process at the Archer-Daniel-Midlands plant on Cargill Road at 5:10 p.m. Saturday.

The beans became overheated, began smoldering and finally burst into flames, despite an automatic sprinkling system being activated, inside a 60-foot-high steel container, located in the plant's elevators.

Granite City firefighters were called and remained at the scene for a total of four hours and 10 minutes. Plant employees and firemen eventually expelled all the burning material.

"Because of the type of material burning, it was a very difficult fire to extinguish," according to George Smolich, a fire department spokesman, who said a great deal of smoke is generated from such a blaze.

No injuries were experienced by personnel and minimal damage was sustained to the structure in which the beans were contained. No estimate was given of monetary loss.

sickening is Stix had so much potential," he said. "The bond department alone in October made $140,000. Stix had made over a half million dollars through September a million gross."

"The last two years, they had added new expenses, new sales manager, new offices, and the company has made more money. Usually when you invest in growth, you take a short-term lessening in earnings. Stix had increased earnings as it was growing."

He said the company was planning to open offices in Miami, Fla., and Las Vegas, Nev., this past week, when the bombshell hit. "I really enjoyed being with Stix," Massa said with the wilfulness of a dream that it is ended. I spent from 20 to 50 hours a month there."

But, he said, it was not correct to describe him as "controlling" the firm, which he said he left to the professionals. Fredric A. Arnstein Jr., is president and chief operating officer, Daniel L. O'Connell, chief financial officer, and three senior vice presidents are Brimberry, Leonard G. Bednar and Morris M. Moss.

Study school crossing routes near overpass

By GEORGEANN MCGEE for the Press-Record

Parents and children lined benches outside the Granite City Council chambers last week, seeking aldermanic approval for placement of a crossing guard at the three-way intersection of 19th and Benton streets and Niedringhaus Avenue.

"We didn't want to just bombard them with kids in the neighborhood," said Debra Robinson, a parent of three. Emerson School children, "but a lot of parents and kids will show up next time if this doesn't work out."

Mrs. Robinson told aldermen the overpass has created "very dangerous crossing" for Emerson children. She handed Alderman Jake Varadian of the 5th Ward, member of the council's street and alley committee, a 300-signature petition that included the names of several Emerson teachers.

"Children of this neighborhood have taken for granted that the overpass is a playground... This causes a very dangerous situation for our school children," she said.

The operator of Deb's Dream, 1929 Nineteenth St., Mrs. Robinson said that from her shop she can hear cars screaming when they must stop suddenly at the foot of the overpass. Alert to such sounds, she investigated last Tuesday and found a driver yelling at five children who had almost hit with his car.

A school patrol currently supervises crossings at the overpass intersection, but "Elementary school children are not capable of telling children to cross busy streets," Mrs. Robinson contended.

She said that when she contacted School Board President Thomas Miosfay, he referred her to the city, which pays the salaries of the school crossing guards. Varadian made a motion to have the city install a three-way stop at 20th and Benton streets and move Emerson's crossing guard from his station there to 19th and Benton. He said he thought the motion after parents objected to losing a guard on Benton.

Chief of Police Ronald Veizer said there is a crossing light at 20th and Benton. He said he thought traffic is not as heavy at 20th and Benton, since the opening of the overpass, but he would not recommend removal of the crossing guard there without checking the situation.

Varadian requested that City Engineer Monroe Brewer conduct a traffic study at 20th and Benton street to determine whether or not there is still a need for a guard at the spot.

"We don't have the staff," Brewer said. Varadian then made a second motion to refer the problem to the police department and the city engineering division.

Park Awards Banquet

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City Park District's 22nd Annual Sports Award Banquet will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 17, at the Granite City South High School Cafeteria beginning at 6:15 p.m.

Paul Alexander, sportscaster at KMOX-TV, will be the main speaker. Alexander started with the St. Louis sports reporter. He came to KMOX from KOLD-TV in Tucson, Ariz. where he has been employed as that station's sports director since August, 1978.

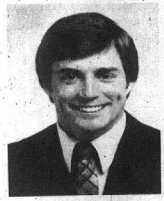

Alexander graduated from Southwest Texas State University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Journalism, in 1976. He won numerous news reporting and broadcasting awards while at Southwest Texas State, including being honored by that school as journalist of the year in 1976.

Other special guest speakers will be Granite City's own Dal Maxvill, Joe Hoerner and pitcher Bruce Sutter.

Maxvill was signed by Cardinal scout Joe Monahan in 1960. In 1981 he was the Cardinals minor league fielding instructor for all minor league teams. He has recently been named as a coach for the Atlanta Braves for next season. In 1968 Maxvill won the Golden Glove award and has been in five World Series.

Sutter became a Cardinal on Dec. 8, 1980 in exchange for third baseman Ken Reitz and Ty Waller and Outfielder first baseman Leon Durham. Sutter ranks as the top relief pitcher in the major leagues.

Sutter was elected as a member of the National League All-Star Squad in each of his four full major league seasons. He graduated from Donegal High School, Mt. Joy, Pa. in 1972, where he excelled in baseball, basketball and football. Sutter played with the Chicago Cubs prior to being traded to the Cardinals.

Joe Hoerner, former Cardinal pitcher, will also be on hand.

The banquet honors teams that placed as winners in Park District Athletic leagues. Baseball and basketball trophies will be awarded that evening as all other trophies were presented during the past seasons.

Teams have been notified as to the number of tickets allotted to them, however extra tickets will go on sale in the Wilson Park Office on Nov. 12 at 9 a.m. Any softball team who won a trophy this past summer may purchase tickets after the above date.

Venice council to hear cable TV presentation

The Venice City Council has scheduled its third presentation of cable TV firm interested in extending cable service to Venice residents.

The presentation is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 17, during the next city council meeting. The company to make the presentation is Dowden Communication Inc. of Park Forest, Ill.

During the past few months, Venice council members have heard two other cable TV proposals, one from city of Madison officials and the other from another private company.

In other business, the council received a copy of a proposal from the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad for the vacating of part of Main Street and alleys. Copies were given to all the aldermen at the request of Mayor Echols. The action followed a verbal presentation by railroad representatives.

The ICG wants to enlarge and improve its present piggyback yardrail car to deliver truck transfer facility in southern Venice. The mayor asked the two First Ward aldermen, Danis and John T. Fleig, to take the proposal and talk to the residents of the neighborhood near the present piggyback yard.

The ICG is requesting that the lower south portion of Main Street, ending at the north side of the Terminal Railroad Association bridge, be vacated, along with alleys in the same area. The ICG owns the properties on both sides of that portion of Main Street and alleys and, they said, the street and alleys are used exclusively by the railroad company.

They claimed that extra room is needed to enlarge the parking area and eliminate the congestion. Alderman John Ervin said, "I am still concerned whether this expansion will provide any jobs for Venice people."

Mayor Tyrone Echols read a letter from the Promo Network Systems of Chicago plan to make a full length movie entitled, "First Black Man in the White House." The company said it would be traveling about 400,000 miles in the filming and include several cities with black mayors.

The council approved the annual renewal contract with the Illinois Department of Transportation for $54,000 of motor fuel tax funds to be used to repair specified streets.

A list of used city equipment is to be prepared and advertised for sale in the near future, the council agreed.

The Rev. John Henry Williams informed the council about a street light which is burned out in the 600 block of Washington St. He contended that it will take about three to four working days to get the light replaced.

TRAINING IN TEXAS
Airman Todd J. Pope, son of Robert J. Pope of 14 Bradley, and of Shirley J. Pope of 4050 Kathy Drive, both of Granite City, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The airman is remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the communications and electronics field. He is a 1981 graduate of Granite City High School North.
